Slow Burner

Q. On June 4 I ordered burners for our stove from D and H Appliance in Culver City. A check for $23.80 accompanied my order. In July I received a card saying the burners were out of stock, but would be ordered. I waited until the middle of August and, finally, tired of waiting, called the store and asked that my order be canceled and my money refunded. So far, I have heard nothing from them. H. B., Paramount.

A. ACTION LINE contacted store manager George Schwartzman, who explained that the burners have just arrived from New York. "We'll fill his order immediately," Schwartzman said. However, he added that if you still wish to cancel your order they will send you a refund. You may contact him at 836-4500.

Flag Bag

Q. My son was killed in Vietnam. I was given a flag at his military funeral. I plan to display it in the window on holidays. Can you help me find a triangular plastic bag to put the flag in so I can keep it dust-free and clean? J.M.T., Wilmington.

A. ACTION LINE contacted several flag dealers who said they didn't carry such flag covers as you describe. With the help of plastic manufacturers, ACTION LINE located Chase Bag Co., 4900 Corona Ave., Los Angeles. Manager John Meidinger said if you will send him the dimensions of the flag you need and tell him whether you want clear or opaque plastic, he will have a bag made by hand for you. The bag will be given you with the compliments of the company. ACTION LINE also will send you instructions on how to properly fold a flag and display it. When a U.S. flag is displayed in a window, the union (blue field) should be uppermost and to the left of the observer in the street.

Jumpy

Q. Where can I buy a trampoline, and how much will it cost? P.M., Lakewood.

A. We jumped into your question and found trampolines ranging in price from $89.95 to $349.95 at Trampoline Inc., 247 W. Sixth St., San Pedro. The company carries four sizes suitable for home use: 4 by 6 feet, 4 by 8, 5 by 10, and 6 by 12. You will receive with the trampoline instructions on how to use it.

Stale Fresh Water

Q. Are there any laws in Anaheim as to how long water can stay in an apartment swimming pool before it has to be changed? The water at our apartment pool has not been changed for more than five years and tastes salty and looks terrible. What can be done? A.C., Anaheim.

A. There are no laws regarding the changing of pool water in Anaheim but you may call and leave your name and address and the location of the pool with the Anaheim Health Department, 776-5551. An inspector will check the condition of the pool within 24 hours, according to Richard Robison, assistant director of environmental sanitation for the County of Orange. He added that some chemicals used as pool disinfectants contain sodium and chlorine which may produce a slightly salty taste. Anaheim public pools, which include motel and apartment house swimming pools, are inspected about four times a year by the health department there, Robison said, and must maintain high sanitation standards.

Fit to Print

Q. In my business, I take black-and-white pictures and develop the negatives at night. I then try to get prints made within 24 hours, but in Long Beach this isn't easy. Can ACTION LINE give me a lead? J.F., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE found four companies in Long Beach which will make prints within 24 hours if you give them the negatives before a certain time in the day. They are City Photo, 1719 E. Anaheim St.; Long Beach Camera, 5543 Atlantic Ave.; May's Camera Shop, 5263 E. Second St.; and Mercury Photo Finishing, 2931 Redondo Ave.

SOUND OFF!

Why doesn't a city as prosperous as Long Beach provide a good parking lot with an ocean view for us and also for tourists with campers and trailers? Now that they have tried to run us all out of Pierpoint Landing, we're wondering where we can go without bothering the merchants. How about a parking lot similar to the boat launching ramps where you pay 50 cents a night? Maybe some suitable place could be found on Pier J. — E. A., Long Beach.

REACTION

If we are going to talk about violence on TV and in the movies, let us get some things straight. Dramatized violence is a symptom of America's sickness, not its cause. I do not wish to overgeneralize, but it does seem that large numbers of Americans are obsessed, to a greater or lesser extent, overtly or covertly, by violence. The cause of this goes deeper than TV. The answer must lie in the psychological axiom, frustration causes aggression. And, evidently, this factor starts taking effect at a very early age. If many children and adults could not experience aggression vicariously, they would snap, and this country would snap with them. Let us hope that the sciences of psychology and sociology will someday find the solution. J.K., Long Beach.

Reagan Vetoes Win Out

Republicans Block Override Attempts for Second Year

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Legislature, hoping for a final decision on property tax relief early next week, wrapped up its second annual veto session Friday with a clear victory for Gov. Ronald Reagan.

For the second consecutive year, Democrats failed to override any of Reagan's vetoes. Reagan's Republican backers blocked seven attempts in the Assembly alone.

Although the veto session—required by a 1966 revision of the state constitution—ended, the lawmakers still struggled with tax relief.

A COMPROMISE plan to grant a total of $316 million in property tax relief moved only slightly Friday. The Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee completed its action by moving the tax bill along to the Senate Finance Committee, where it could run into difficulty.

A companion constitutional amendment for the November general election cleared the Revenue Committee Thursday afternoon.

The Assembly completed action Thursday night on its own almost identical two-measure package

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan agreed Friday to provide $15 million for programs for educationally handicapped children if the Legislature approves an enabling measure. Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento has introduced a bill which Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh said could be passed quickly in the Assembly.

worked out by legislative leaders and Reagan. The lower house sent the bill to the Senate on a 77-2 vote and the constitutional amendment cleared the Assembly, 74-1.

The tax package would grant its $316 million aid to homeowners, renters and businesses starting next spring.

It would be financed by using money from a continuation of 1/2 cent of the 5-cent sales tax. Without a property tax relief program, the 1/2 cent is scheduled to expire Oct. 1.

PROPERTY owners would get $178 million, a heaped up amount now including a break for duplex owners, through a flat $750 deduction from their assessments.

Renters would get $40 million as a type of property tax reduction by doubling their exemption on the state income tax. Business would gain $43 million through a 15 per cent re-

30,000 Navy Enlistees to Get Early Releases

Will Don Civvies by Year End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy said Friday 30,000 sailors who had enlisted for two years will be released from active duty ahead of time. The decision was made to save money.

About a third of those receiving early discharges will have served only one year of active duty. Others will have served 15 months and others 18 months.

The men enlisted under a program which calls for two years of active duty and four years in the active reserves. Those released from active duty early will lengthen their reserve obligation.

The men will return to civilian life between Oct. 1 and Dec. 31.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT followed disclosure last month that small Navy ships and eight naval air squadrons were being deactivated in another step designed to help the Pentagon save $2 billion to $3 billion.

The Navy specifically excluded men serving in the Vietnam War from early releases. Men on duty with the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean also were excluded.

Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., who has been pressing the Defense Department to release 14,800 reservists—mostly airmen—called to active duty last January after the North Korean seizure of the USS Pueblo, denounced the early release of the enlistees while reservists remain on duty as an "outrageous injustice." He estimated the early release of the enlistees will save $48 million.

THE release of the 30,000 sailors will reduce Navy strength by the end of the year to 663,000, below its authorized strength of 687,917. The Navy said it expected to be back up to the authorized level by July 1, 1969.

The announcement was an indication that all the U.S. armed forces have ended the three-year buildup which put nearly 900,000 more men in uniform and now are starting to decrease their strength.

The decreases are attributed to pressure on the services to help President Johnson trim the $6 billion from his budget ordered by Congress as its price for supporting Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Nixon: No Conspiracy on Fortas

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon said Friday night there was "absolutely no truth whatever" to Hubert Humphrey's charge that Nixon has conspired with Sen. Strom Thurmond to block the appointment of Abe Fortas as chief justice of the U.S.

"There are 67 Democrats in the Senate... and before he starts throwing rocks at us, let him look at his own party," Nixon said in an originally televised appearance.

IT WAS Nixon's first direct comment on charges by the Democratic presidential nominee that he and the South Carolina conservative leader were in collusion to block the Fortas appointment now being considered by the U.S. Senate.

Nixon said he thought President Johnson made a mistake in nominating Fortas "in the political context in which it was made." But he said he considered it a matter for the Senate to decide and said he was staying out of it.

Nixon, who arrived here from Indianapolis, Ind., also said he did not think the United States should ISLAND BEACH, N.J. — Vice President Hubert Humphrey took off his kid gloves along with his shoes Friday and verbally socked it to Richard Nixon.

Humphrey let Nixon have it with both barrels — and promised more of the same during the 1968 presidential campaign — during a brisk ambulatory news conference on the New Jersey seashore.

He accused his Republican opponent of "sacrificing national interest for political demagoguery" by opposing the nuclear nonproliferation treaty and of "playing footloose and fancy free" by helping Southwestern block Senate confirmation of Abe Fortas as U.S. chief justice.

Humphrey, walking barefooted and with his trousers rolled up to his knees, also likened Nixon to the bumbling cartoon detective, Fearless Fosdick, for taking a hard-line position on law and order.

It was easily Humphrey's strongest personal criticism of Nixon since both men were nominated, and seemed to indicate a new determination on the vice president's part to take the offensive after a week of campaigning that often found him in a defensive posture.

SUNNY, FAIR FOR WEEKEND

Generally fair weather, with mostly sunny days, will grace the Long Beach area this weekend, according to the weatherman, who said low clouds will continue to hug the coastline in the mornings.

Mountains and deserts may get isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers today.

The weekend outlook calls for temperatures in the low 70s along the coast.

Sift Executive Jet Wreckage in Probe

Air safety investigators for the Los Angeles office of the National Transportation Safety Board worked into the night Friday collecting pieces of wreckage as they started an investigation into the crash of a private jet at the edge of fog-shrouded Hollywood-Burbank Airport. Three persons were killed in the crash.

The pilot and copilot of the twin-jet Aero Commander were killed. A 60-year-old woman was burned to death in her car when it was hit by one of the hurtling engines.

A 9-year-old girl standing in her front yard was struck on the head by a piece of the flaming debris.

The disintegrating sections of the jet hit the roof of a supply plant and rained off into two houses, an apartment unit, and a parking lot where 20 cars were destroyed and 15 damaged.

The plane, owned by Technicolor, Inc., had taken off from Santa Monica Municipal Airport 30 miles away and flown to Burbank to pick up three vice presidents of the company for a trip to Northern California. The dead were identified as Robert E. Bear, 48, chief pilot, and Blanchard G. McManus, 37, copilot, both of Granada Hills, and Mrs. Mary Renick, 60, of North Hollywood.

One engine plowed for four blocks and smashed into a carport where Mrs. Renick, a bookkeeper, was just starting for work.

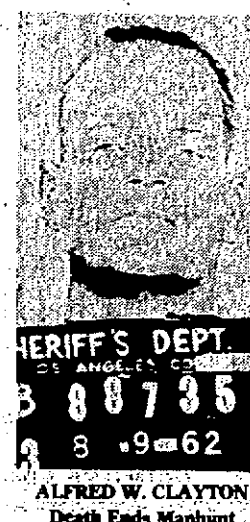

A tail section hit two private homes. Penny Carter, 9, standing in the front yard of one of them, was struck on the head. She was taken to a hospital where her condition was listed as fair.

Suicide of Suspect Closes Plastic-Bag Murder Case

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

The plastic-bag suffocation murders of two small Crestline children Friday was labeled officially closed by the San Bernardino Sheriff's Department, even as one of the two young victims was buried in a simple grave that faced toward the mountains where he met death.

Sheriff Frank Bland called off the most extensive man-hunt in his county's history following discovery of the body of Alfred Ward Clayton, 44, an Azusa construction worker. Clayton shot himself with a .22-caliber revolver Thursday as deputies waited to question him at his house. His body was found on a nearby dirt road, a bullet through the heart.

OFFICERS had wanted to talk to Clayton about the brutal murders of Paul Saltzman Jr., 9, and Victoria Caldwell, 8, suffocated in plastic dry cleaning bags on Sept. 6. Their nude bodies were found under a bridge near the mountain spa the following day.

The little blonde Caldwell girl was buried on Tuesday in San Bernardino but the father of the boy, Paul E. Saltzman Sr., said he had no money to pay for

Albania Quits Warsaw Pact

LONDON — Communist Albania has pulled out of the Warsaw Pact for fear of a possible Russian attempt to extend its crackdown on Czechoslovakia to Albania's pro-Peking regime. Recent rumors of Soviet troop concentrations near the frontier of Romania suggested the possibility of Soviet moves against fellow mavericks Yugoslavia and Albania as well. None of these rumors has been borne out. The broadcast from the Albanian capital, Tirana, said deputies welcomed the pullout with "stormy applause and jubilation." Albania does not want to be exposed to any forceful Soviet "protection" which the Tirana government apparently fears Moscow might be tempted to proffer by invoking Albania's violations of Warsaw Pact commitments, the sources said. Albania's membership in the Warsaw Pact stems from the days of its adherence to the Soviet bloc under Joseph Stalin.

277 Reds Killed in Viet

SAIGON — Allied troops swept the rice paddies and plantations along the northwestern invasion corridor to Saigon Friday looking for enemy forces hard hit in two battles. The U.S. Command put the enemy toll at 277 killed after more than a day of fighting around the key cities of Tay Ninh and Loc Ninh, 45 miles north and 65 miles north respectively of Saigon. The heaviest toll came in a battle at a rubber plantation on the outskirts of Loc Ninh. Some 121 enemy soldiers were killed here by a U.S. task force. U.S. losses were 14 killed and 60 wounded. Fighter-bombers attacked the fleeing enemy, identified as units of the 32nd North Vietnamese Regiment.

Czech Freedoms Abolished

PRAGUE — The Parliament passed two laws Friday abolishing freedom of assembly and freedom of the press, officially ending Czechoslovakia's eight-month experiment in individual liberty. Czechoslovak Premier Oldrich Cernik had pleaded for the new laws and said they were necessary because the activities of "antisocialist forces" in Czechoslovakia had resulted in the Soviet army invading the nation. Until the Soviet invasion, the press had been freed from censorship and political rallies had been encouraged in Czechoslovakia. The bills reimposed censorship and made public assembly illegal.

Heiress' Gems Stolen

ROME — Police arrested an Italian marquis and the owner of a restaurant Friday and charged them with masterminding a theft of jewels valued at $340,000 from American heiress Barbara Corning Clark last October. Mrs. Clark, 35, a former wife of actor Edmund Purdom, was driving to the airport when the car had a flat tire. While the driver was changing the wheel a motorcycle pulled up alongside with two youngsters, one of whom snatched a bag with the jewels through an open window. Police arrested Marguis Romano Leopoldo, 21, an acquaintance and restaurant owner Eli Palmieri, 31, an accomplice. Police still are searching for the two persons who carried out the theft.

New Arab-Israeli Strife

JERUSALEM — Friday amid Arab calls for a military solution of the Middle East crisis, Egypt said its anti-aircraft guns went into action to drive off Israeli planes. The new fighting broke out between Israeli forces along the cease-fire lines with Egypt, Jordan and Syria. The Arab and Israeli troops traded artillery, mortar and machinegun fire. In Amman, a Jordanian military spokesman said one Jordanian soldier was killed during two hours and 15 minutes of mortar and machinegun fire between Jordanian and Israeli forces across the Jordan River. The new outbreak brought to 11 the number of clashes this month between Israeli and Jordanian forces.

Mercy Flights Suspended

LAGOS — The Red Cross suspended mercy flights into secessionist Biafra Friday because of fighting near its two landing strips. The Red Cross in Geneva said the airstrip was badly damaged by Nigerian bombs. It was the airstrip designated in an agreement Sept. 3 by the Nigerian government and the International Red Cross for emergency daylight flights.

"It loosened me up for advanced infantry training," he said. Because he is "Mr. 100,000" he received a gold watch and plaque, presented by Maj. Gen. William W. Buechley, commanding general at Ft. Lewis.

Abe Fortas Accused, Refuses to Appear

WASHINGTON — The dean of American University's law school Friday told senators considering Abe Fortas' nomination as chief justice that Fortas was paid $15,000 to deliver nine law school lectures this summer. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. charged that it was improper for a Supreme Court justice to accept payment for work he does outside the court. Supreme Court observers said it was not unusual for justices to give university lectures or lecture series, sometimes for compensation. Meantime, Fortas, subjected to four days of hostile questioning in July, sent a letter to committee chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., declining an invitation to appear again for further questioning about his role as an adviser to President Johnson.

N.Y. Schools Paralyzed

NEW YORK — A citywide teachers' strike paralyzed the nation's largest school system Friday for the second time within the week, and most of its 1.1 million pupils once again were denied classroom education. Only about 22,600 children showed up. Mayor John V. Lindsay, surrendering the role of peacemaker in the bitter dispute to State Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr., called the situation "extremely complicated and tension ridden." Center of the deadlock with the AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers over job security was the experimental Ocean Hill-Brownsville local school district, where 10 ousted white teachers have been denied reinstatement. Its administrator, Rhody McCoy, said he was asking the state to take over the district from the city's Board of Education.

LBJ's Anticrime Directors

WASHINGTON — President Johnson picked Friday the three-man high command of a new agency that will parcel out anticrime grants to states and cities. Johnson's choice as head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration — being set up under the Safe Street and Crime Act — is Patrick V. Murphy, 48, director of public safety for the District of Columbia. Murphy will have two associate administrators, Dr. Ralph Sui, 50, a Hawaiian-born chemist and Wesley A. Pomeroy, 48, a Republican who was under sheriff of California's San Mateo County before becoming Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark's assistant for law enforcement.

Lead Poisoning in Slums

NEW YORK — A Rockefeller University scientist said Friday that one of every 13 children from slum areas in the South Bronx suffers from lead poisoning. Glenn Paulson, a physical chemist, told a City Hall hearing on building violations that the poisoning was due to poor maintenance of painted surfaces in old tenements. Paul Debrul, a housing worker at the University Settlement House said there may be at least 18,000 youngsters in the slums with undiagnosed lead poisoning.

Army Maj. Gen. Keith L. Ware, a Medal of Honor winner, was killed in South Vietnam Friday when his helicopter crashed, the Pentagon announced. There were other casualties but details were withheld pending notification of next of kin. The 52-year-old Ware, who joined the Army as a draftee in World War II, was the fourth general killed in the Vietnam war.

He had been in Vietnam about nine months and was in command of the 1st Infantry Division. The cause of the helicopter crash was not known here. The Pentagon said it occurred in Binh Long province. During the enemy Tet offensive last winter, Ware directed the defense of Saigon.

Before his assignment to Vietnam, Ware was the Army's chief of information, with headquarters in the Pentagon.

He is survived by his widow, the former Joyce M. Johnson, and three children. Born in Denver, Colo., Nov. 23, 1915, Ware was drafted in 1941 and went through officer candidate school at Ft. Benning, Ga., the next year. Landing in North Africa, Ware saw combat in that campaign as well as in the invasion of Sicily, southern Italy, Anzio and the liberation of France.

Ware won the Medal of Honor Dec. 26, 1944, while leading an infantry battalion in an attack on a stubbornly held German position near Sigolsheim, France. With his assault companies pinned down, Ware reconnoitered alone 150 yards ahead of his command and deliberately drew German fire to unmask the Nazi position. Returning to his troops, he picked up an automatic rifle and led a small assault group of 11 men and a tank in knocking out four machine-guns. Wounded, he refused medical attention until the Germans had been cleared from the hill position.

Three other generals who were killed in the Vietnam war were: Marine Maj. Gen. Bruno A. Hochmuth, Air Force Maj. Gen. Robert F. Worley, and Air Force Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm. A fifth general, Brig. Gen. Alfred J. F. Moody, died of a heart attack while serving as assistant division commander of the 1st Cavalry Division.

Close Case in Murder of Children

either the funeral or burial. On Wednesday, a Long Beach businessman — who read of the man's plight in the Independent, Press-Telegram — came forward and paid for the funeral and the burial.

Services were held in the open air in San Bernardino at 10 a.m. Friday, with both Saltzman and his divorced wife — the mother of the young victim — in attendance at the simple service. The father, still choked with grief, and the boy's mother spoke briefly to each other.

MEANWHILE, a San Bernardino Sheriff's spokesman said that the sheriff had called off further investigation in the case because all evidence indicated that Clayton was the responsible person.

"I don't think there can be any doubt in anyone's mind that Clayton was our man," said Capt. Gene Majors.

He cited the finding of additional plastic bags — identical to the murder weapons — in Clayton's Crestline apartment. Also found was a tape which matched perfectly the tape with which the two young victims were bound.

In addition, the cabin probe produced shoes which had the same print as those found near the scene where the bodies were discovered, as well as blood on the floor and a variety of pornographic material.

A sheriff's spokesman said Mrs. Arlene Clayton, wife of the self-slain murder suspect, told them her husband spent "a terrible night" before he killed himself. The deputy said that Mrs. Clayton said her husband woke up several times in the night, yelled occasionally and vomited several times.

He must have had some pretty bad nightmares," the officer opined.

DALEY HOUR BEAMS HERE ON SUNDAY

Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, who had a strong supporting role in the TV spectacular of the Democratic National Convention, returns to video Sunday night as star of his own show.

Daley will be seen in and narrate a special broadcast at 9 p.m., Sunday, on Channel 11 titled "What Trees Do They Plant?" It is billed as the mayor's own version of the convention disorders.

The program was prepared privately for distribution across the nation to 100 TV and 1,000 radio stations. Channel 11 said it didn't know who would sponsor the 1-hour show.

Daley was refused time by the networks for rebuttal of charges that Chicago's police precipitated the rioting during the convention.

Sex Slayer Hunts Never End

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

The suicide of Alfred Ward Clayton, 44, an Azusa construction worker, has closed the investigation of the brutal Crestline sex slayings of Victoria Caldwell, 8, and Paul Saltzman Jr., 9.

But similar unsolved sex murders of children are among homicide investigations which never die.

Police are still seeking the "mad dog" killer of 11-year-old Dorothy Gale Brown, whose ravaged body was found 150 yards offshore at Corona del Mar July 4, 1962—18½ hours after she disappeared from her Torrance home.

More recent are the grisly sex slayings of Janice Sorem, 17, and Stephanie Lynn Gorman, 16, still under investigation following their deaths in 1965 and 1966.

In Redondo Beach, the rape-slaying of little Christine McAvin, 6, keeps detectives alert for any new leads which could result in the capture of her killer.

And the strange disappearance of Karen Lynn Tompkins, a blonde, blue-eyed 11-year old who vanished from her Torrance home Aug. 18, 1961, remains unsolved.

WHILE THESE child slayers may today be walking the streets, diligent Southland police will never let them rest and the cold fear of capture will haunt these faceless murderers until they die.

Detectives from both Los Angeles and Orange Counties continue to hunt the killer of Dorothy Gale Brown.

Her savage slaying and the circumstances surrounding the death led a Torrance police captain to the belief that Dorothy was killed by a strange "someone" whom she knew.

Dorothy's nude body was discovered near Corona del Mar, but a strange chain of evidence led detectives from Los Angeles Harbor Division to Orange County's Newport Beach on a months-long, painstaking probe.

The girl's killer has never been identified, but the search continues.

The search continues for a man described in his late teens or early 20s, standing between 5-foot-7 and 5-foot-11, weighing about 175 pounds and having long, dirty-looking blond hair.

HE REMAINS the prime suspect in the tragic rape-slaying of Janice Sorem, perky San Fernando Valley high school student, well liked by friends and neighbors, who met her death in a station wagon on a darkened Granada Hills shopping center parking lot July 24, 1966.

Before the killer of friendly Janice escaped into the night, he strangled the girl and trussed-up her body inside the station wagon — a grisly signal madness had struck again.

Some 15 miles south of Granada Hills, detectives in West Los Angeles continue the painful job of probing the Aug. 5, 1965, death of pretty Stephanie Lynn Gorman.

She was raped, beaten and shot to death in a bedroom of her family's home.

As in the Sorem case, a possible description of an as-yet unidentified suspect exists. He is a man of Latin descent, about 45 years old, 5-foot-7, weighing about 140 pounds and marked by a shallow-checked, unshaven face and an unkempt appearance.

Similarities exist between the Gorman case and the slaying of tiny Christine McAvin.

Christine, too, met death in her own home — at the hands of a lustful killer who raped, stabbed and strangled the child in her bedroom while her brothers, sisters and mother slept unaware.

FOR HOMICIDE detectives, the Christine McAvin case remains open, although more than a year has passed.

Torrance officers still seek to solve the strange disappearance of Karen Lynn Tompkins, who vanished more than seven years ago.

Karen, eldest child of Navy Chief Boilermaker William Tompkins, loved to spend her free time at a neighborhood school playground.

It was a Friday, and Karen's school project for the week — a Conestoga wagon — was finished.

Holding it in her hands, the girl skipped from the playground on her way home.

But she never made it — Karen skipped off into oblivion.

BOOK REVIEWS

Fine Children's Books for Fall

There are excellent new children's books for the fall. Here are some of them:

THE NEW GOLDEN TREASURY OF NATURAL HISTORY. By Bertha Morris Parker; illustrated. Golden Press, $4.95.

The New Golden Treasury gives an excellent coverage of the world of natural history. The text is very readable and the illustrations are plentiful and well executed in attractive color.

Two brief sections at the beginning are devoted to prehistoric animals and geology; the rest of the book pertains to the present plant and animal kingdoms. Of particular interest are the sections on plant and animal adaptations which explain among other things why a cactus has spines and a mole has thick velvet like fur.

Most children are interested in how a spider makes its web, which is explained in an excellent set of diagrams.

Colored charts at the back present the categories of classification of living things and the geological and biological eras in the history of North America. Ages 8 to 14. — A.H.

THE SUN SHONE ON THE ELEPHANT. By Gwyneth Mamluk; illustrated by author. Golden, $1.

Here is another charming Golden book, attractively illustrated and again at a most reasonable price.

An elephant who considers himself big and ugly enjoys a transformation into a royal mount. Ages 5 to 9. — A.H.

THE MYSTERY OF THE GOLDEN CAT. By Eleanor Coerr; illustrated by author. Tuttle, $3.50.

Golden Cat climbed in Dang and Malce's window the night before Children's Day, the biggest holiday in the year for Thai children. Grandmother said he had the markings of a royal cat. One thing was certain. Golden Cat had the knack of getting into trouble, which he proved when the children took him with them for the Children's Day festivities. He finally redeems himself by locating the children's stolen shoes and uncovering the thief. Ages 5 to 10. — A.H.

THE DAY IT SNOWED IN SUMMER. By Florence Heide and Sylvia Van Clief; illus., Kenneth Longtemps. Funk and Wagnalls, $2.95.

The heat was unbearable and everybody turned their air conditioners on. The cool air drifted up and woke Jack Frost, who, thinking it must be winter, started doing his stuff. Ages 5 to 8. — A.H.

THE GOBLIN UNDER THE STAIRS. By Mary Callahan; illus., Janet McCaffery. Morrow, $3.50.

The goblin under the stairs is a boggart, a little man who can be seen only by looking through a keyhole. When treated nicely he can be a wonderful servant, but he's a terror if

SOLONS SET PROBE OF CAL EXPO

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The glittering new California Exposition, facing an estimated $1 million deficit during its premier year, became the target Friday of a legislative investigation.

"It is my firm belief that Cal Expo is on the verge of financial disaster," said Chairman Harvey Johnson of the Assembly Government Organization Committee. The El Monte Democrat announced his committee has begun an inquiry into the $33 million exposition.

The exposition concluded its initial 58-day maiden run Monday. Both revenue and attendance fell far below pre-opening forecasts.

anyone gives him a hard time.

After reading this charming story, imaginative children will be looking through keyholes, hoping to find boggarts themselves.

A wild melee of color illustrates the boggart's antics. Ages 5 to 10. — A.H.

THE ONION MAIDENS. By A. K. Ruchel; illustrated by author. Prentice Hall, $4.50.

The girls of Wethersfield, Conn., had tear-stained faces, red noses and rough hands from working in the onion fields. The girls from the other towns laughed at them and concentrated on pursuing husbands, but it was the Wethersfield girls who found the husbands with their delicious onion-spiced cooking.

This adaptation of a colonial anecdote is followed by a recipe for the onion maidens' special stew. Ages 5 to 9. — A.H.

Board Hits Expletives Used in School Texts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state Board of Education is sending a literature textbook back to the Curriculum Commission for re-evaluation because it uses such words as "damn," "hell," and "my God."

The board previously had approved the series of literature books for use in all school districts in the state starting in September 1969.

BOARD member George Brown, a Bakersfield attorney, objected in a letter to the use of expletives and other phrases in the seventh- and eighth-grade books.

After a lengthy squabble Thursday, the board agreed to send the book back to the commission for possible substitution of at least one literature selection.

Brown cited such phrases as "damn it in hell" and "shut up" and said one story "talks about a girl's figure."

HE SAID a story by Herman Wouk, "The Dubbing of General Garbage," had "an underlying theme of disrespect for authority" and another book contained stories which are "exposés of cruel and brutal conflicts consisting of values outside the realm of most seventh- and eighth-grade students."

Mrs. Seymour Mathiesen, another member, said, "We can't kid these youngsters."

"They know the language that is used. It's hard for me to see what is so offensive and bad."

BUT OTHER members disagreed, including Dr. John Ford, who said that "just because certain language and conduct is carried on in the streets, there is no reason to put it in books."

The curriculum commission had agreed to changes in language but refused to delete any stories from the books.

After the debate board members agreed that they were unclear whether they had instructed the board staff to carry out the changes suggested by the commission or to make the deletions of passages and stories as recommended by Brown.

A BOOK published by Scott Foresman was sent back to the commission to see if the publisher could find a substitute for the story, "The Jar," by Luigi Pirandello. In the story "my God" appears twice and "by the Virgin's blood, you'll pay for that," once.

Reagan Attacks UC Naming of Black Panther Lecturer

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan bitterly protested Friday the selection of Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver as a guest lecturer at the University of California's Berkeley campus. He demanded the decision be rescinded.

Charging the university had ignored minimum standards of academic competence, Reagan said he was "astounded that university officials would have even contemplated such a decision."

CLEAVER, minister of information for the militant Negro group, will teach a course in the history of racism at UC this fall. Students will get five units of academic credit for attending.

A statement issued by the university said no state funds would be used to pay Cleaver for his lectures.

But Reagan made it clear that he wanted to see the decision overruled by the UC regents, scheduled to meet Sept. 19-20 on the UCLA campus.

"Perhaps on the heels of the campus Viet Cong rally, the Vietnam commencement and other recent performances of a similar inappropriate nature, I should not have been surprised," Reagan said in a statement issued by his office. "But I am."

"The people of this state," Reagan said, "have a right to expect that a great institution of learning — one which they have established and maintained, and to which they entrust their children — will exercise great care in the selection of faculty, both in terms of academic preparation and in dedication to the objective and scholarly teaching of truth."

"IT IS NOT in keeping with the nature of a quality institution to place in the role of teacher a person whose approach to social issues has consistently been emotional rather than rational, coercive, even violent, rather than problem-solving," he said.

Reagan said Cleaver, in addition, had a "criminal record including conviction of possession of narcotics, two counts of assault with intent to commit murder and one count of assault with a deadly weapon. The governor said Cleaver was charged with three counts of assault with intent to kill in 1968, while on parole from state prison, and now was pending trial on those charges.

'EYE IN SKY' DEBUTS MONDAY

Police Copter Patrol Poised

Story and Photos
By ANNE HOWE

When the Police Department's new "Eye In The Sky" helicopter begins regular patrol duties over Long Beach Monday, I won't be able to watch it darting about, or hovering over the streets, without feeling a touch of excitement. Half hanging, half leaning out the doorless copter — cruising at 500 feet over the city — might not be the best way to take pictures. But it certainly highlighted my preview ride in the new airborne patrol unit.

The two-place, $43,000 helicopter, built by the Aircraft Division of Hughes Tool Co., will be manned by Sgt. Robert H. Brizendine, pilot, and Patrolman Ben Post in a preliminary test of aerial patrol procedures. Sgt. Brizendine and Patrolman Post are the first of six Long Beach officers being trained — at a cost of $5,000 each for a 200-hour course — to man the city's two helicopters when they go into full operation. Patrolmen Harry Duple and Fred Baak are already in training, the sergeant said, and the department will select two additional men for the helicopter.

The use of copters in police patrol work is a proven success, according to Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess, whose department initiated Operation Sky Knight in Lake-wood almost two years ago.

During the first year of operation, the sheriff's aerial units were credited with apprehending 20 burglary suspects, a score of auto-theft and assault suspects, and numerous traffic offenders.

Long Beach will become the first city on the West Coast to have a helicopter unit as part of its police department, and one of three cities in the entire country planning such patrols. Kansas City, Mo., recently began helicopter police patrols, and Santa Monica is training four pilots.

During daylight the "Eye" will cruise about 50 to 60 miles an hour at about 500 feet. "From that altitude," Post said, "we can see the color of a missing youngster's shirt, or a prowler trying to force a window."

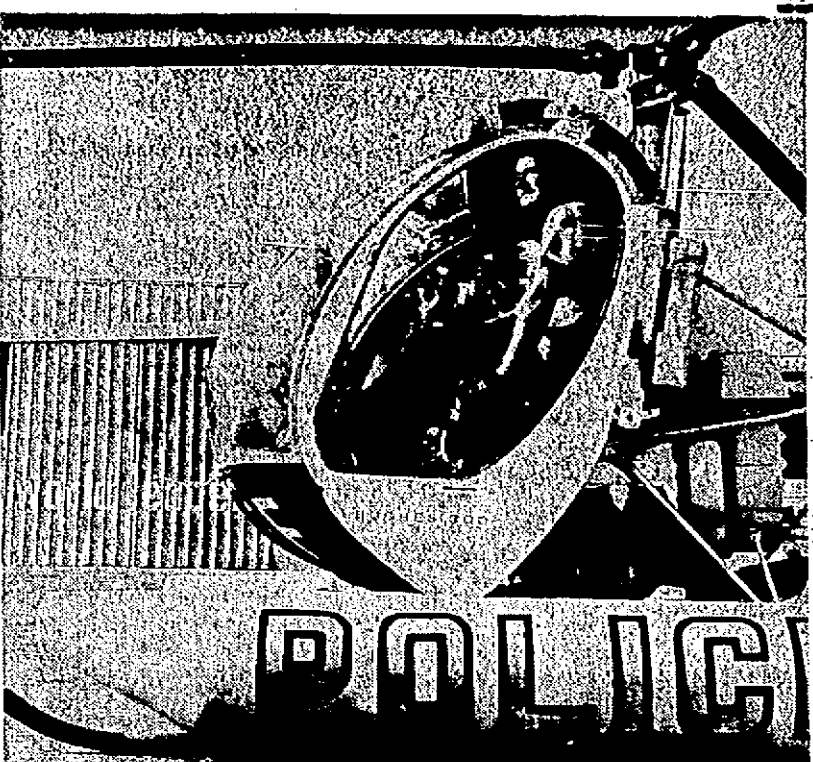

"Helicopter patrols won't replace any of our police cars," Sgt. Brizendine explained, "they'll just make our service more effective."

"Everyone seems enthusiastic about the patrols," Brizendine said.

But, it's a good bet the aerial "Eye" patrols will eliminate any suitless sunbathing — for those who want an all-over tan.

Billie Jean's Day

By BOB MARTIN
Staff Writer

The daughter of a Long Beach fireman, who grew up to become both a King and a queen, reigned happily Friday in her old hometown.

It was Billie Jean Moffitt King Day in Long Beach, and larger turnouts than anyone expected saluted the world queen of tennis at a testimonial luncheon and an exhibition-clinic.

More than 400 persons attended the luncheon in the Pacific Coast Club, overflowing into an adjoining dining area.

And the 1,000-seat bleachers set up at the tennis courts could not handle all the fans who turned out for the 3 p.m. exhibition-clinic.

Some stood, while others sat on adjacent courts to watch Billie Jean and fellow pros Rosemary Casals, Roy Emerson and Ken Rosewall perform.

FOLLOWING the luncheon, before the exhibition-clinic and dedication of the Billie Jean Moffitt King Tennis Center in Recreation Park, Mrs. King and her husband, Larry, UC Berkeley law student, rode in a convertible for a parade through downtown Long Beach along with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis J. Moffitt, of Long Beach and three marching bands took part.

Mayor Edwin W. Wade, County Supervisor Burton W. Chace and Robert J. Kelleher, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, paid tribute to the reigning, three-time world champion of women's tennis.

"As you already know," Mayor Wade told Mrs. King, "the City Council voted to name the city's tennis complex in historic Recreation Park in your honor."

"From this day on, it will be known as the Billie Jean Moffitt King Tennis Center. This is your hometown's gift to you in recognition of your outstanding accomplishments and the honor you have brought to us. You are the youngest person ever to be so honored by the City of Long Beach, but it is an honor richly deserved."

Mrs. King, 24, drew a laugh in her response when she referred to the fact the City Council voted to change the name of the courts two years ago, but was just now dedicating the Tennis Center.

"Councilman Crow said in 1966, 'We usually do this after someone is dead,'" Billie Jean said "and I was beginning to think this was going to be the case."

Billie Jean emphasized, "I wouldn't be here today if it hadn't been for the help of the Long Beach Tennis Patrons Association, the Century Club and individuals of Long Beach. You can't make it in tennis without money."

KELLEHER, FORMER U.S. Davis Cup captain and an attorney from Beverly Hills, said, "Billie Jean typifies all that is the best in tennis. The United States is proud of her not only as a champion, but as a young lady who has shown the best of Long Beach, and the best of the United States all around the world."

The main gift to Mrs. King at the luncheon was a video tape recorder which will enable her to make her own tennis instructional or other films for closed circuit television.

The presentation was made by Llewellyn Bixby IV of the Chamber of Commerce, in behalf of the citizens of Long Beach. He also said extra money raised in the gift fund drive would go to the Long Beach Tennis Patrons Association in Billie Jean's name to promote junior tennis.

DC-10 Pilots to Train in $2-Million Device

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

McDonnell Douglas pilot-instructors and pilot personnel of airline DC-10 purchasers will train in a $2.5-million cockpit simulator of the 300-400-passenger Airbus, to be installed at Flight Safety Inc. at Long Beach Airport.

The six-axis simulator, a duplicate of the flight deck of the $15-million-plus DC-10, is scheduled for delivery to the Flight Safety facility, at 4330 Donald Douglas Drive, in August 1970 — target date for the first DC-10 flight.

Purchased from Conduction Corp. of St. Louis, a subsidiary of McDonnell Douglas, the simulator is the first to be ordered, and will be one of the largest ever built.

McDonnell Douglas and Flight Safety jointly announced the signing of a long-term contract for DC-10 pilot training at the nationwide flight training organization's New York office.

The DC-10 simulator will join a DC-9 pilot training device which has been operational at Flight Safety's Long Beach center since last March.

McDonnell Douglas pilots and DC-9 customer airlines utilize the DC-9 simulator under a separate contract.

Flight Safety said it is enlarging its Long Beach facility to provide special classrooms, briefing rooms and installation area for the DC-10 program.

Pilots of American Air Lines and United Air Lines, which have orders and options for a total of 110 DC-10s, will be among the first to train in the new simulator.

Torrance Man Electrocuted at Machine

An electrical arc of 9,000 volts leaped from a faulty metal machine and killed a 59-year-old Torrance man Friday.

Earl T. Needham, 1011 Patronella Ave., was electrocuted at the Diamond Tool Co., 3904 El Segundo Blvd., Hawthorne, while talking to a supervisor, according to police.

Officers said the victim was not touching the metal-bonding machine or its wiring when the bolt leaped and struck his left hand.

Cypress GI Killed in Vietnam Combat

Army Spec. 4 Patrick D. Fay of Cypress has been killed in Vietnam combat, the Defense Department reported Friday. His parents were listed as Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Fay of 8851 LaSalle St.

Recipient of L.B. Boy's Heart Dies

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

James Elbert Singleton — the world's 41st heart transplant recipient — died Friday, eight days after he received the organ from Paul Craig Mason, 17, of Long Beach. Singleton died at 8 a.m. in Methodist Hospital at Houston, Texas.

Mason, fatally injured in a motorcycle accident on Labor Day, was buried here last week.

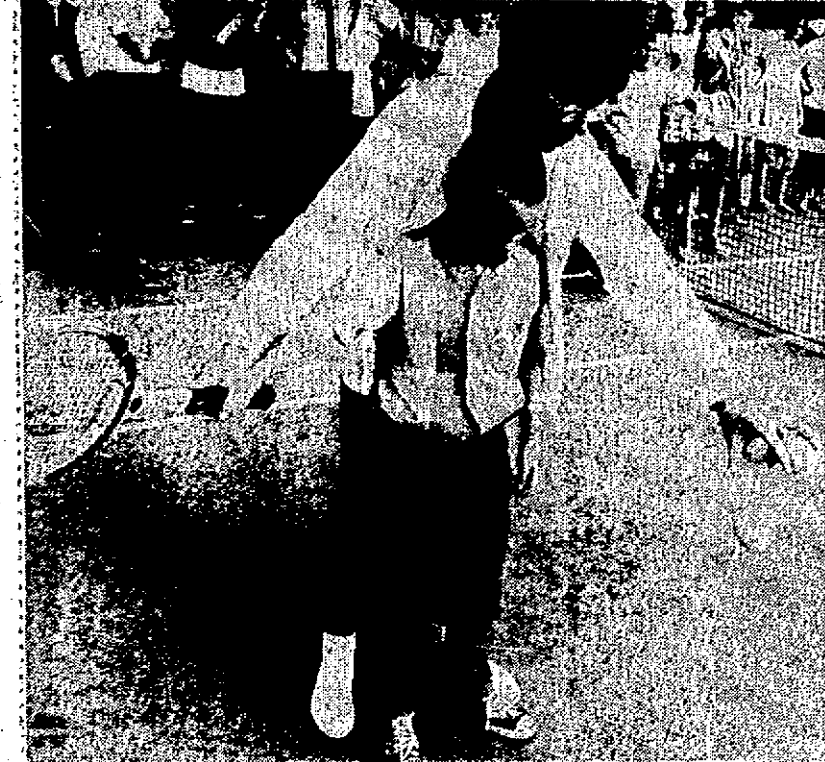

The death of Singleton dashed the hopes of Dale Mason, Long Beach, and Mrs. Charlene E. Duden, that part of their son would live on.

Singleton, fourth of 12 Houston heart transplant recipients succumbed on his 27th wedding anniversary, hours before a planned hospital celebration with his wife and family.

Hospital officials said Singleton's heart failed about 2:30 a.m.

Surgeons tried in vain to get young Mason's heart to resume beating in Singleton's chest, but about 8 a.m. efforts were abandoned and the Ft. Worth aircraft worker was pronounced dead.

Singleton received the heart Sept. 5, after Mason — pronounced clinically dead but with a special device keeping his heart beating — was flown to Houston for the transplant operation.

Medical Aid Classes Offered

Two classes in medical self-help and one in radiological monitoring will be offered by the Long Beach Department of Emergency Preparedness in its fall program.

Pre-enrollment, required for the courses, may be accomplished by telephone. Classes will be conducted at Civil Defense headquarters, 5373 E. Second St.

The radiological monitoring course will be held Monday morning, Sept. 23, and Monday and Tuesday evening, Sept. 23 and 24. It is primarily for individuals assigned as radiological monitors, but is also open to the public.

The 16-hour medical self-help classes will be conducted each Thursday for eight weeks starting Sept. 26. One class will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the other at 7:30 p.m.

The classes offer training in controlling bleeding, bandaging, treatment of fractures and shock, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and coping with emergency childbirth.

Evar P. Peterson, coordinator of disaster services, said the medical self-help classes will satisfy a new state requirement that police and firemen undergo training in first aid for victims of disasters and accidents.

Marguerite O'Rourke, veteran instructor in paramedical subjects, will teach the daytime class and Air Force Reserve Lt. Col. Wallace Berg will teach the night session.

City Has Long Way to Bond-Debt Limit

The City of Long Beach could legally issue more than $142 million in bonds above the present total of bonds outstanding, City Auditor Murray T. Courson reported Friday.

In his annual audit of the city's general and special levy funds, Courson pointed out that the State Government Code permits a city to have a bonded indebtedness of up to 15 per cent of its assessed valuation. As of the audit date last year, Courson said, Long Beach's bonded indebtedness was only 2.17 per cent.

The city's assessed valuation was $1,112,668,420, Courson said, and the 15 per cent limit would permit Long Beach to issue bonds totaling $166,900,000.

The bonded indebtedness as of the audit time was only $24,218,029, Courson said.

General Hospital Facility Approved

Lindon S. Hollinger, chief county administrative officer, Friday recommended approval of plans for a $490,000 surgery addition at the county's Long Beach General Hospital.

The plans call for a complex of 14,770 square feet. Sited to be constructed are three operating rooms, scrub areas, a recovery room, clean-up-work rooms, offices, patient transfer area and other facilities at Willow Street and Redondo Avenue.

"Construction of this facility will permit the hospital to perform reconstructive surgery procedures that are a part of the geriatric rehabilitation program," Hollinger said.

Presently, hospital patients must be transferred elsewhere for surgery. The transfers interrupt continuity of the patient rehabilitation program, Hollinger said in his report.

Also recommended was a $32,505 fee for architects Lindsey and Lindsey of Los Angeles, the firm handling the hospital's schematic plans and specifications.

Supervisors are scheduled to give a final approval to the project when they meet Tuesday.

GIRLS-ONLY GOINGS ON AT LOS ANGELES COUNTY FAIRGROUNDS
Shirley Claunch (Left) DeLaine Sanders Whisper Advice to 'Exhibit'

'68 County Fair Has International Flavor

By BILL DUNCAN
Staff Writer

The old county fair ain't what it used to be.

Of course, there is still the rural flavor with hay and horses and pigs and potatoes, but the emphasis is no longer on agricultural achievements. Instead the Los Angeles County Fair which opened Friday for a 17 day run through Sept. 29, has an international flair this year.

Even the farmer's daughters no longer look like farmer's daughters — they are college students worrying about sophisticated math courses instead of how to quilt.

DeLaine Sanders, 20-year-old, blue-eyed blonde from Pomona, was crowned queen of the fair during opening day activities which attracted a record crowd of more than 50,000.

Miss Sanders, student at Mt. San Antonio Junior College, was selected from a field of eight Pomona area college students.

She stands 5-feet-3 and measures an eye pleasing 35-24-36.

Today's changed county fair is putting its eggs in baskets for cultural, educational, and commercial features from every continent.

Most of the agricultural exhibits and competitions come from nearby counties, but this year, even Orange County's exhibit puts emphasis on the new profile of that county instead of agriculture. Los Angeles County's exhibit, for example, is a modernistic waterfall.

Of course, the young farmers of 4-H and Future Farmers Clubs and from the Granges that still exist, will carry on the tradition of judging livestock, farm products, and homemaking projects that made the county fair what it was.

Like every thing else in Los Angeles County, the fair is the biggest in the world. Special opening weekend events will be the National Ballet of Mexico, a program of folk music and dance from Mexico, presented free in the race arena at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 2 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

A new feature this year will be the Japanese art display, with leading artists and craftsmen from Japan demonstrating their talents. Sumi painting, stencil-dye design, woodblock printing, flower arranging and the tea ceremony will be included in daily shows.

A special program at 8:30 p.m. each Friday, Saturday and Sunday, will feature the Rokuka Hanayaga Dancers at the Japanese art exhibition.

Other fair features include: Continuous entertainment in the Amphitheater Friday beginning at 11 a.m.; the flower and garden show with more than 8,000 species of flowers, shrubs, trees, cactus, ground coverings and succulents; the Interior Design Showcase featuring rooms designed by some of Southern California's noted decorators; and the International Pavilion, a showcase for products and cultures from 30 nations.

Feature race for today on the half-mile fairground track is the $10,000 Foothill Stakes. A 12-event card, daily except Sundays, includes two quarter horse, two harness and eight thoroughbred races.

POWER SQUADRON

Small-Boat Pilot Course Set

Instruction in techniques of safe smallcraft handling for sail and powerboat enthusiasts will be offered at two Long Beach high schools this fall, according to Cmdr. Victor Bourbonnais, commander of the Long Beach unit, United States Power Squadron.

The free, 13-week courses in elementary piloting will be held at Wilson High School Monday evenings starting Sept. 16 and at Millikan High School Thursday evenings starting Sept. 19. Classes start at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeterias.

Bourbonnais said classes are open to anyone 14 years of age or older, regardless of where they live in the Southland.

"Material covered in these classes is the minimum that any boater or prospective boater should know before venturing onto a lake, river, inside the bay or offshore waters," he said.

Subjects taught by experienced smallboat skippers include proper fueling practices, Coast Guard requirements, right-of-way, Rules of the Road and other facets of handling sail and powerboats.

Other subjects to be covered include compass and chart-reading, ventilation requirements, docking and undocking, dead reckoning and other subjects related to safe boating operation.

"We especially encourage wives and youngsters, who may have to take over control of a boat in an emergency, to enroll in one of the classes," Bourbonnais said.

Students who complete the basic course and become members of the USPS are eligible to enroll in more advanced courses including seamanship, advanced piloting, and celestial navigation.

Other elective courses offered by the Long Beach Squadron, a nonprofit, federally chartered educational organization, include marine electronics, weather, sailing and engine maintenance.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

The vivid, dahlia blossoms, whether pompom, decorative, the largest cactus-shape flowers or those in between, all furnish happy bright colors indoors. They blend well in arrangements, too.

The most important thing the gardener must remember to do if he wants the cut blossoms to stay this season. But the gardener has the most wonderful opportunity now to see them in gardens and at flower shows, possibly a dahlia show or two. Obtain the names of those you like and save them. Early next spring check your list. Purchase the roots and plant them.

One of the bulbous plants that grow in lots of shade is the white calla lily. It is not on. You might find some calla lily bulbs at the nursery or garden center.

If you luckily have a planting of them and they need to be separated and replanted, do it soon as you can, even if some new growth already started to develop. Work in some organic material with bone meal when replanting them.

You've probably noticed we keep reminding you to "work some organic material into the soil" when replanting a flower bed, dividing and replanting perennials or setting out plants.

The saddest comment some gardeners propound is, "Where can I get my soil analyzed?" Questioned why they want that done, they respond, "I've planted flowers twice and both times they didn't do well at all, even when I fertilized them." When asked if they worked in any organic material such as manure, premoistened peat moss, compost soil, leaf mold, planter mix mulch or one of the finely ground harks, their answer is "No." It's no wonder the plants didn't thrive well.

There are several ways a gardener can prepare a flower bed. Some years ago before the handy prepared mulches were available, we spread evenly seven pounds of agricultural gypsum to each 100 square feet area of flower bed, a two-inch layer of premoistened sphagnum peat moss and a two-inch layer of manure, one on top of the other, and dug all that in a shovel depth into the medium to heavy soil.

As we dug we turned up nearly yellow anemic-looking listless angieworms that barely had strength enough to burrow back into the soil. This indicated a lack of organic matter in the soil.

After digging over we heavily soaked the prepared soil. Five days later the soil was thoroughly dug over a second time. It was the first time that flower bed ever had been thoroughly prepared. This type of flower bed preparation is thorough and is done thusly the first time . . . and no soil analysis is needed.

Ten days later the soil was raked over, the plants set out. The winter annuals were fed twice during their active growing season. The blossoms were superb. The home owner commented, "The flowers in heaven

Stereo, Tapes Taken

Ernie Ferrales, 3303 Los Coyotes Diagonal, told Long Beach police Friday that thieves broke into his car, parked in a Douglas Aircraft Division lot, and stole a stereo tape deck and tapes valued at $172.

DO IT NOW

YOU REALLY don't have to put up with a straw-color bermuda, St. Augustine or hybrid bermuda lawn during the cold winter season. Apply now a high nitrogen-content turf fertilizer to that lawn. Feed it a second time a month later. Lawn soil must be thoroughly moist but grass tops dry before fertilizer application. Thoroughly water the lawn after feeding, then water again for two days in a row. Water regularly thereafter. The two feedings stimulate the lawn to grow fast and green up. Increasing cold weather slows down the growth. Grass gradually goes dormant, and loses the rich green. It finally fades to a blue-green and stays thusly during the winter, a better color than a sickly yellow.

SMALLEST stocks with least root disturbance develop into best blooming plants. The individual plants in pony paks should be separated by breaking apart the soil around each plant. Carefully plant them. Keep sharp lookout for aphids on new tip growths of stocks. It is aphids that cause stunted stocks growth, with resultant puny blossoms.

fresh and last longer is to cut them in late afternoon. Put the immediately cut flowers in a bucket of cold water. Leave them on the back porch where the night air comes in.

Next morning arrange them as desired.

It's too late to plant the dahlia roots now, and rarely will you find them in containers at the nursery a true lily, but belongs to the Arum family (Araceae). If you asked your garden friends point-blank if they grow any Zantedeschia (zante-desh'-ia), possibly one in 10 would know the botanical name for calla lilies.

Plant a group of them in the shady part of the garden and you'll have your own lily flowers for Easter and more blossoms coming Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

Q. Could you find out how to get rid of the mess our rice paper trees left us? We cut them down. Prior to that they dropped millions of seeds in or lawn, hence millions of little rice paper plants are sprouting up all over the lawn. (They've been doing this, that's why we cut down the monsters.) We can't seem to pull them out by the roots no matter how much soaking of the lawn beforehand. They just break off and grow back again. We'd like to get rid of them, but how? Mrs. Duane Boughtner.

A. If in a grass lawn, spray the young foliage with a broad-leaf herbicide your nurseryman recommends. Mix the amount recommended on the herbicide bottle label with proper amount of water. Continue such foliage spraying and you should get rid of the monsters' babies, too!

Q. I tried mothballs in my garbage and trash cans and they really work! Here's another mothballs use: Put a couple around the roots of your roses to keep aphids and other bugs off. My question is, how can I kill teardrop moss? It is taking over my lawn and kills the grass. Nothing can grow in it but geraniums. Mrs. Ann J. Clemmons.

A. If your reference to "tear moss" means baby tears (Helxine moss), a nurseryman informed us two of his customers told him Cha-kem-co's Oxalis-Kil, got rid of the moss.

Q. There's a large number of huge black flies working over my dichondra lawn at various periods of the day. Can you suggest a method of controlling and eliminating the

PLEASE in your questions, state the kind of soil you have, location of plants whether in sun or shade, name of tree or plant if possible, whether it grows in lawn, flower bed or open soil area, if grown in ground or in container, also if possible age of plant.

pests? Also, I'm unable to locate factual information for a small but beautiful potted Sago palm. Could you advise me on how to maintain the plant? Ed Schwartz.

A. Blow flies attracted to the dichondra lawn means you may have been feeding the lawn an all-organic fertilizer high in nitrogen content, such as blood meal, fish meal, tankage, possibly a sewage-type fertilizer, or dog fecal matter not cleaned up. The usual indoor insecticide sprays for house pests usually are not formulated for outdoor garden plant use. We checked with Cooke Lab Products (insecticides) and learned that Cooke's Roto-Lind spray apparently would by far be the best for blow flies control. Second best might be 50 per cent malathion spray. Let us know your results. Concerning the Sago palm, if you've had it for the past three months, it is healthy and thriving, continue taking care of it as you have been doing! If just recently acquired, water it as you do any container plant growing outdoors. This means slowly fill the container with water two or three times, and call it one-unit drink of water. Such watering thoroughly soaks the whole root ball, hence doesn't need a watering every day or two. Let soil dry before watering again. Fertilize it with liquid fertilizer that contains more nitrogen than phosphorus or potash. Apply at three- to four-week intervals but a day or so after plants have been watered. (Read the liquid fertilizer bottle directions, then use one-half of the usual amount per gallon of water.)

Q. I have a good size philodendron on my balcony. One of the leaves turned yellow. Also a small one with four leaves. Now two of the leaves have turned yellow. Am I watering the plants too much (once a week) or not enough? D. Lauritzen.

A. Too much water would have caused brown spots and brown leaf edges. I believe they aren't getting enough water throughout the root balls. Do this: Fill the containers with water. If the water gushes out of the bottom, either you don't have the holes inside the containers covered, to check the water to soak the plant roots, or else you haven't checked the soil around the root balls for firmness. Correct either possible problem. Water the containers two or three times after each previous watering disappears into the soil.

DAHLIA . . . Blends Well in Arrangements

surely can't be any prettier and better than ours!"

Later the faded annuals were dug out preparatory to replanting summer blooming plants. As the soil was turned over, numerous adolescent rich rose-color angieworms turned up, vigorously burrowed back into the soil. This indicated a good tilth soil.

Gardener also should mix two parts of organic material with three parts of soil when setting out most plants or trees into the ground or into containers.

There may be two critical pest infestations of elm trees. Caterpillars chew the leafage. Gardener should spray tree with stomach-type spray. Cochineal scale should be sprayed with scale oil spray plus malathion.

Where Are Russ Churchmen on Czechoslovakia Invasion?

By LES RODNEY
Religion Editor

Well, and where are the Russian church leaders speaking their conscience against their country's invasion of Czechoslovakia?

They can't claim that they stick to spiritual matters only, for they have been free, with high moral grandeur, to denounce the U.S. intervention in Vietnam.

Not a peep from their consciences on the unspeakable, immoral invasion of a helpless small country by their own mighty nation, accompanied by its four jackal armies.

For that matter, to get into the world of culture, where is that great free spirit, the Russian poet Yevushenko, who so eloquently and scornfully challenged his fellow writer John Steinbeck to stand up and be counted against the Vietnam war? Yevushenko is sitting down.

Lots of American religion leaders, writers and intellectuals painfully spoke their consciences against the Vietnam war. A leading American poet refused an invitation to the White House. Two U.S. senators entered the race for president on a platform of opposition to the war. One of them is now in Arlington Cemetery. The chaplain of one of our largest and most famous universities has been sentenced to prison.

But not in Russia. Cat got your tongue, gentlemen?

And other lively features in the world of religion.

YOU CAN SAY whatever else you want about Bishop Gerald Kennedy, but you can't accuse him of being tradition-encrusted. In agreeing to become working pastor of First United Methodist Church of Pasadena, he becomes the first in Methodism's 230-year history to assume leadership of a local congregation while remaining a bishop.

The 60-year-old preacher extraordinary is dramatizing his statement that "I believe in the local church more than ever. I believe that if Christianity is to win it will be on that front." He adds that he thinks a bishop "or any other bureaucrat" (he said it, not me!) needs to participate where the action is.

The 93-year-old church now becomes a "cathedral church" as long as Bishop Kennedy fulfills his dual role of bishop and pastor. Among its past pastors are Rev. Dr. Harold C. Case, who later became president of Boston University.

During Bishop Kennedy's 16 years of leadership in the Southland conference, the Methodist church has grown by 100,000 members and 140 churches. It is hard to evaluate those figures against the inevitable growth inherent in the population explosion, but they still sound pretty good.

THE JEWISH High Holy Days, which start a week from Sunday night, will be observed aboard the Princess Italia on the high seas during the trip which takes off from here Sept. 20 to Mexico, the Caribbean and Italy. Rabbi Emeritus Maxwell H. Dubin of Wilshire Boulevard will conduct the unusual services. And cruise passengers have been invited by the Hebrew congregation in St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands, to take part in Yom Kippur services with them Oct. 2.

THE ANNUAL fall minister's retreat of the Southland's Churches of God, a traditionally conservative evangelical denomination, will have as its guest next month Rev. Ross A. Greek, pastor of West Hollywood.

United Presbyterian Church, known for his unusual ministry to the alienated young.

THE HORRIFYING famine in embattled Biafra, with helpless tots starving to death every day, has broken down a few interfaith lines. Rabbi Marc Tanenbaum, of the American Jewish Committee, says that Jews are full of admiration for the "moral passion, courage and realism" which Christian relief agencies such as Catholic Relief Service and Church World Service have displayed in flying food into Biafra despite great dangers and political obstruction.

Therefore, Jewish relief organizations have decided that their own considerable resources will be channeled through the Christian agencies to speed the most effective relief.

"This is the first time that the entire Jewish community has volunteered to join with Catholics and Protestants in an international humanitarian endeavor to serve people who are not Jewish and are not likely ever to become Jews," Tanenbaum comments.

A SURVEY by Christian Life Magazine finds that 17 of the 20 largest Sunday Schools in the country are affiliated with Baptist churches. Largest Sunday School in the land, it says, belongs to Akron Baptist Temple of Akron, Ohio, with an average weekly Sunday School attendance of 6,300, and a staff of 920, mostly unpaid volunteers. The church is a member of the conservative Baptist Bible Fellowship, of which Calvary Baptist of Bellflower is the largest local member.

THIRTY-THREE Lutheran pastors of Metropolitan Washington, D.C. signed a declaration supporting 52 Roman Catholic priests in the nation's capital who take public issue with Pope Paul's encyclical banning artificial birth control. Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, archbishop of Washington, has said he must take action against any priest who does not totally accept the pronouncement.

The Lutherans who signed represented two-fifths of those in attendance at a Lutheran Planning Council conference which included the three major Lutheran bodies.

In their statement they said they would communicate their concern to Cardinal O'Boyle, urging him to practice "love and restraint" and said that priests who dissent on the birth control issue "do so out of Biblical and theological persuasion, and out of love and concern for their parishioners."

Circulation of the document, it was explained, was not official Lutheran stance in any way, but "simply an expression of individual opinion on the part of pastors who want to record their feelings in the matter."

There are 94 congregations of the three big Lutheran synods in the Washington, D.C. area.

LONG BEACH'S Pacific Christian College is offering a rare opportunity to area residents this semester, with four courses in religion, any or all of which may be taken with no previous enrollment at the school needed. College credits will be given, but if you don't care about that, the courses still promise to be very worthwhile to anyone. Age doesn't matter. The courses are Religious Drama, How Our Bible Came to Be, Christian Education Organization and History of Missions. Fuller details in story elsewhere in this section.

Council Enters 'Conspiracy' Case

The Council of Churches in Southern California, upon the recommendation of its Commission on Church and Race, has entered the case of the 13 Mexican American leaders arrested on conspiracy charges in connection with the East Los Angeles school protests of last spring. The Council filed a "friend of the Court" brief (Amicus Curiae) arguing its concern on the question of using conspiracy arrests to restrain dissent.

The statement began: The Council of Churches in Southern California wishes to enter into the public record its grave concern over:

- (1) The recent innovative use of conspiracy arrests to stifle dissent,
- (2) The selective use of

Unitarians Propose Bold New Sanctuary

A bold new sanctuary is being proposed to give Long Beach Unitarian Church a redoubled seating capacity and a new look.

If approved, plans call for erection of a $300,000 edifice at the west end of the church's 3½-acre property at 5450 Atherton St. The 500-seat sanctuary, with administrative offices and library, will free the present worship center from its dual role as church and social hall, to be remodeled into a religious education center.

The present buildings were dedicated 11 years ago when the church moved from Ninth Street and Lime Avenue.

Plans designed by architect Morris L. Verger call for a sanctuary partly in the round, and on several levels. A choir loft sweeps around the ceiling making possible antiphonal choirs. The cantilevering of the roof rises at the north end, and a sweeping expanse of glass here opens the roof skyward. Likened to a chambered nautilus whose walls encircle and enfold, the circular sanctuary opens at certain points to frame sections of sky and tree.

Dr. John Nicholls Booth, pastor, says the structure would be available to community groups for forums, lectures, dramas and other events.

Architect drawings and specifications are now on display at the church so members and friends will have a chance to acquaint themselves with the plans before the congregational meeting Sept. 22, 7:30 p.m.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Loving Yourself Is a First Step

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A friend, who would often sound off at weekly luncheons of the Rotary Club on "the low quality of American youth of today," and had no use for them at all, maintained that rough treatment was the only way to handle these "young jerks."

"Better try to love them, Fred," I said, "then you'll understand them. They've got something on their minds."

"What minds?" he growled in contempt.

It so happened that shortly thereafter a Rotarian's son from out West was arrested in New York for stealing a car. The judge asked me if I wanted the boy paroled to me, as his father had requested. "No, Judge, please parole him to Fred," I suggested. It was done, and Fred had the boy on his hands, and the kid was a real problem, and no fooling. But Fred stuck with him, and after a while reported, "You wouldn't believe it, but I like the kid, wild as he is. We'll make something of him yet." And was Fred proud on that day four years later when he was present at the boy's ordination into the ministry.

"AND," SAID the young fellow, "if it hadn't been for the love and faith Fred gave me when I was making a complete ass of myself, I would have gone down the drain. That man's love saved me. And do I love him!"

"The first person one must learn to love is himself. If you do not love yourself, that is, have respect for your own self, you will not really be able to love anyone else. The Bible statement, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself,' actually means, 'Have the actually regard for the other fellow that you have for yourself.' Then he will grow to like you, too."

Of course there is an abnormal self-love called narcissism, in which the individual becomes enamored of himself and totally concerned with himself. This is a personality sickness, resulting in alienation from the community of men, and is a far cry from that wholesome esteem for your own self which leads to a similar regard for all other people.

We have often prescribed more emphasis on outgoing attitudes for those nervous, tense, unhappy people who are trying to make some sense of life. But the use of the word "love" causes problems, for the tendency is to equate it with some perfumed, scented, sophisticated Hollywoodized concept. People romanticize the word love, when actually it means simply to treat people with common decency, with the respect due to every man as a brother.

Go out and get interested in the human problems that are everywhere around us. Help to improve the human lot, and you will find that this servicing type of love is perhaps the healthiest of all attitudes. It puts one into the mainstream of the human race, and as you participate and get involved and learn to know people and they you, life will become good — real good.

LOVE IS never a soft, genial attitude; indeed, when you really love the poor and underprivileged you will get out and fight for better conditions for all men, and the fight is often against prejudice and entrenched greed, and it is no easy struggle to overcome it. Love is tough, and it never gives up as long as anyone is the victim of injustice and mistreatment.

This type of love was illustrated by the experience of Abraham Lincoln when he saw a slave girl being sold on the block like a horse or cow. She was being sold away from her family, and he saw the fright and terror in her eyes. "This must stop," he said; and he fought a terrible four-year war because of his love of mankind.

Injustice today must also go, and if we love enough to do something constructive about such problems, we will receive love even as we love. Loving and being loved are opposite sides of the same coin.

'Servicemen's Prayer' Wins Popularity

More than a half a million copies of "The Servicemen's Daily Prayer," printed in billfold size, have been distributed since two Columbus, Ohio women began the project.

Intended for all Christians serving at home or abroad, it has won popularity with chaplains in Vietnam, who have aided in the distribution. Mother's Clubs, youth groups, American Legion Posts and others are helping get them distributed.

Readers may obtain copies by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Service Prayer, 2936 Bremen St., Columbus, Ohio 43224.

Text of the prayer:
O God my Father, so merciful and kind to all

Your children, protect me this day from every danger to soul and body.

Bestow Your blessings on my country and on all who fight against the evils of Communism. Bless also, my family and friends, who wait for me back home.

I believe that in God there are three Divine Persons — Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

I believe that God the Father so loved the world that He sent to us His only-begotten Son, Jesus Christ, who died on the cross for our salvation.

I believe that God in His mercy and justice, rewards goodness and punishes evil.

I am truly sorry for all my sins because they have offended You who are so good and merciful. I love You with all my heart and I promise that with Your help, I will never offend You again. Help me to do all that is necessary to obtain eternal life.

Grant, dear Lord, that I may return safely to those I love, and that a just and lasting peace may soon prevail throughout the world.

In the name of Jesus Christ, hear me and have mercy on me, Amen.

This Sunday would be the ideal time to visit Calvary and see for yourself that this ministry could be a tremendous blessing to your life. The new building at 14722 Clark (adjacent to our present buildings on Ardis) is quite a landmark with its high steeple towering above the entire city. Our present buildings are directly behind this beautiful auditorium and this will serve as a guide to Calvary now. We do expect to be in the building in November.

Can we expect you this Sunday? Please fill the car with the family and friends and come to Calvary. Calvary is for you.

THAT 'OLD TIME' JUDAISM

1st Hassidic Congregation Will Open in Long Beach

Long Beach's first Hassidic Orthodox Jewish congregation will make its debut during the High Holy days opening with Rosh Hashanah Sunday night, Sept. 22.

It will be housed in temporary quarters at 3970 Atlantic Ave., says Rabbi Shlomo Cunin. The 27-year-old rabbi, who is currently West Coast director of the national Lubavitch Hassidic movement, will be interim spiritual leader of the Long Beach congregation. He wears the traditional black garments and facial foliage which marks the Hassidic Jews off from the Reform and Conservative branches of Judaism.

But he does not place any importance on these labels, he said in a Long Beach interview this week.

"Our whole basis is the fact that every Jew is a Jew, period," he said. "Ours is basically an educational program to bring out that fact, and to return to it in all ways. We are geared to impart more of a feeling to people."

THE NEW synagogue, he said, will observe the tradition, almost forgotten in America by the overwhelming preponderance of Jews, who attend Reform and Conservative temples, of separating the men from the women during worship.

Asked whether this would not be offensive to many modern persons as implying an inferior status for women, the youthful rabbi replied with a smile:

"It is not a question of inferiority. We give women credit for being attractive—and distracting."

"My own wife paints, lectures, pursues her independent studies. She is far from being looked down upon."

Other differences, he said, include a Hassidic cantor, with prayers in the ancient Hassidic chants. Wearing of hats is mandatory.

"We do use modern ways, however," Rabbi Cunin said. "We have a mobile synagogue, for example." But it would not roll on the Sabbath.

He feels modern Jewish leaders have tended to depart from their central mission, much as evangelical conservative Christians and criticize mainline churches for too much secular social concerns from the pulpit.

But while he opposes the thrust of the Reform movement, he does not feel the Hassidic movement in Long Beach will be "competitive."

"I have respect for the Reform rabbi if he gets people to observe this much as Jews," he explained with a gesture signifying a small amount. "And for the Conservative rabbi who wins them to keep a little more. As long as they are going up the ladder. Actually, most of our work is with currently unaffiliated Jews."

He feels Orthodoxy has the best appeal to those youthful Jews who have become alienated, including hippies.

"They are martyrs, looking for a flag to carry," he says. "It is now misdirected. We have won some to switch all the way to Orthodox Judaism. If you lay it on the line to them, they may respond. We have a completely honest approach to youth. Yes, uncompromising. This is it."

Rabbi Cunin asks that those seeking more information, before Rosh Hashanah, contact him at the Los Angeles office of the movement, at 755 N. Laurel Ave.

PCC Offers New Courses

Pacific Christian College will offer five college-credit courses to residents of Southern California during the first quarter (September through December) at 7 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Tuesday courses include Religious Drama, based on the Old and New Testaments, wherein students learn the basic fundamentals of acting, lighting, and production using the Bible truths as basic plot material, Harrold McFarland, missions professor. Also How Our Bible Came to Be, Professor Paul McReynolds, will trace the writing, translation, and communication of the Word of God through the centuries.

The only strictly Bible course in content and treatment will be "Romans" taught Tuesdays by the academic dean, Dr. Harold W. Ford.

Thursday courses are Christian Education Organization, Professor Kenneth C. Hanson, set up for teachers and Bible School superintendents; History of Missions, Prof. McFarland, tracing the development and expansion of missions and the church through the centuries with special emphasis on 20th century innovations and advancement.

CONSERVATIVE THEOLOGIAN SAYS

Evangelicals Hurt Cause by Attacks

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Evangelicals, the staunch advocates of firm doctrine and personal acceptance of it, today faced criticism within their own ranks that some of their methods are hurting the cause of Christianity.

They're overly inclined to find fault in the mainline churches and to point accusing fingers, said Rev. Dr. Carl F. H. Henry, a top theologian and leading figure in the evangelical wing of Protestantism.

Unfortunately, he says, evangelicals are most noted "not for the winsome exposition of a powerful alternative to contemporary religious currents, but for their denunciations of the political clergy, of ecumenical subversion, of the corruption of modern Christianity."

"In the secular milieu today," he adds, "anyone who invites men to a Christian commitment must often overcome barriers that evangelicals or fundamentalists have themselves put in the way of an eager response."

DR. HENRY, a Baptist, is editor at large of the leading evangelical periodical, Christianity Today, and organizer of a World Congress on Evangelism two years ago in Berlin, leading to plans for a similar U.S. gathering next year in Minneapolis.

Evangelist Billy Graham has a key role in the undertaking. As generally used, the term evangelicals designates a conservative camp in Protestantism, emphasizing traditional doctrines and personal salvation.

It includes many relatively small denominations, most of them federated in the National Association of Evangelicals, along with many congregations and individuals in major denominations — altogether an estimated 25 million Christians. This is more than a third of the country's 70 million Protestants.

CARL F. H. HENRY

They generally disapprove the ecumenical movement, affirm the infallibility of Scriptures, emphasize individual conversion and object to church "meddling in politics" — a charge often hurled at major denominations for their action on social issues.

Dr. Henry, of Washington, D.C., says he foresees a "significant decline in American Christianity."

"WHAT IS worse, I have the uneasy feeling — very uneasy — that evangelicals may be contributing unwittingly to the tide and tempo of this sad situation," he writes in the current Christianity Today.

When the evangelical impact "centers mainly in flame-throwing defoliation of the ecclesiastical environment, or in the remote bombing of nonevangelical targets, the odds increase with every mission that it too may become a casualty of the conflict," he says.

Quoting Christ's reminder that "God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved," Dr. Henry said this note is lost in some evangelical attitudes "not only toward the world but toward Christendom as well."

"If and when evangelical Christianity becomes primarily a 'search and destroy' operation, it will have forfeited its Biblical right to survival," he says, calling for a more positive exposition of Christian truth rather than assailing others for errors. Referring to the friction between the major interdenominational body, the National Council of Churches, and the smaller evangelical federation, the NAE, and still smaller American Council of Christian Churches, he says the time has come for the fences to come down.

"Our divisions have now become a scandal and they are a barrier to effective fulfillment of the great commission," he says.

Voicing the hope that the young generation of evangelicals will break out of past generation prejudices regarding "race or denominationalism" and emerge as "vanguard of new leadership," he adds:

"It is time they started to march and sing in the open arena, to lift their voices with a clarity and courage that our generation failed to muster."

Lutherans Gain

GENEVA (AP) — Global membership of the Lutheran Church topped 75 million this year, according to statistics released by the Lutheran World Federation. The figure of 75,006,748, compared with 74,419,334 at the same time last year.

NEW PRINCIPAL

Theophil M. Goehring, noted Christian educator, will be installed Sunday, 10:45 a.m., at St. John Lutheran Church, 6698 Orange Ave., as the new principal of the Christian Day School, as well as choir director and organist. A graduate of Concordia Teachers College, with further studies at the Universities of Missouri, Detroit and USC, and Detroit Institute of Musical Arts, he has taught in five states. The congregation will welcome him, his wife Edith and daughter Judith following the service.

Say More Priests Leaving Church

NEW YORK (AP) — The departure of Roman Catholic priests from the active ministry is up 31 per cent in 1968 over that of the previous year, the National Association for Pastoral Renewal says. Replies from members to questionnaires disclosed the names of 463 priests who have resigned since Jan. 1, adding that the total probably was higher, since there was no data from many religious communities.

The number compared with a total of 480 that left in all of 1967, and represents a 31 per cent increase in the monthly rate of resignations, the association said. Among them were 17 seminarians, 19 chancery officials, 33 pastors, and 228 parish assistants.

Serling's Theme a Repugnant One

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

"Certain Honorable Men," Rod Serling's play which opened the NBC "On Stage" series of dramas to be shown this season, certainly managed to score on two of the three "musts" for the productions as outlined by a network official.

A while back, you may recall, there was a piece here about the then vice president of the network, Alvin Cooperman, who was in charge of the productions. He stated that the original plays to be produced must have drama, a contemporary setting and be affirmative in outlook.

Serling's play is certainly contemporary drama. It is obviously drawn from today's newspapers and the recent Senate action in the Sen. Thomas Dodd case, involving misuse of funds and the disclosure of his personal papers by a man who once worked for the senator. Serling saw the drama in the case and its made-for-theater attributes. The drama was built in and the talents of Van Heflin, as the congressman who falls from power, almost made one willing to overlook his faults and select him despite his shortcomings. Pat Hingle contributed a noteworthy characterization as the defense attorney for Heflin.

THE THIRD ingredient, the affirmative outlook, was the item that seemed questionable to me when it was first proposed as one of the "musts" and it appeared to be forced in "Certain Honorable Men."

The young man, Peter Fonda, and the group of youthful "upstarts" opposing Heflin were portrayed as a bunch of calculating cold-blooded "new politicians" who could not overlook a couple of mistakes the congressman made.

The point seems to be that one should weigh the good deeds of the congressman against his lapses of the past in going "on the take." And the weight of the play was that the congressman should be forgiven. The practices of putting relatives on payrolls, trading influence for campaign funds, etc., are, from the "old politics with heart" view of the congressman, a part of the warmth of the game. The "new politics" is incensed with this, is unbending and not inclined to temper justice with mercy. At least that is the lesson of "Certain Honorable Men," and the author seems inclined to think this is heartless.

I find this tidy little sop to long-re-elected political figures personally repugnant — and I am over 50. I don't see service to one's country as a license to steal. I fail to see what age has to do with the matter at all.

THE FINAL scene in which Heflin stands up in Congress and admits his guilt, but obviously is perplexed as to why he should be singled out, then drags in an extraneous item which presumably is aimed at stressing the affirmative outlook.

Heflin addresses himself to the young people who bring him down and advises them no to bring down the government because of the acts of a few public officials like himself.

Aside from the fact that the information furnished in the play leads one to observe that the "cold-fish" young men are more politically astute than the tenured senior congressman, there doesn't seem to be any groundwork for the admonition to the young not to tear down the Halls of Congress. The advice is good enough, but it's not a part of the play. The young in the play are not revolutionaries. They are engaged in the good old game of politics.

But it was a rousing curtain speech and has a certain affinity to the last scene of plays of another day where "The Star Spangled Banner" is played, the American flag is raised and the theme of motherhood is introduced. Naturally, the audience gets on its feet and cheers. Who's against these things?

Leave It To Larry By LARRY MEDER HARBOR CHEVROLET

The pilot of a large airline hasn't been home for over 2 weeks and was bragging to his co-pilot, during their return flight to Love Field, Dallas, that his wife made the best coffee in the world and was the prettiest girl in Texas.

The more he discussed her, the more he warmed to the subject, and began telling what he'd do when he got home. Just then the co-pilot accidentally tripped the loudspeaker switch over which came in tones steeped with feeling, "I'M GONNA ASK HER FOR A CUP O' COFFEE FIRST... THEN TAKE HER IN MY ARMS AND SMOTHER HER WITH KISSES!!"

As an attractive stewardess rushed forward from the tail section of the plane to shut the speaker off, a little old lady looked up from her knitting and said, "DON'T FORGET THE COFFEE... HONEY!!!"

Folk's don't you forget to ASK FOR LARRY MEDER — HARBOR CHEVROLET, when you want that new Chevy or fine used car.

RUSHING DOWN HEARTACHE LANE

SOME ATHLETES POINT four years for the Olympic Games. Others a lifetime. For Gerry Lindgren (left), it seemed like forever. Injuries nullified his gold medal chances at Tokyo four years ago, and injuries eliminated his title try Friday. The little guy from Washington State futilely chases

Connolly, Walker OK; Schul, Lindgren KO'd

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI) — Friday the 13th proved lucky for Ed Burke, Hal Connolly, Al Hall and Willie Davenport, but the end of the line for Bob Schul and little Gerry Lindgren.

The six were members of the 1964 U.S. Olympic track and field team which almost swept the boards at Tokyo. Schul was a gold medal winner in the 5,000 meter run.

Friday, Burke, Hall and Connolly finished 1-2-3 in the hammer. Davenport led the way in the 110-meter hurdles at the U.S. Olympic Final Trials.

Bob Day (5,000), who has his own thing about Friday the 13th, and Art Walker (triple jump) were other winners on a windswept day which was more conducive to sailboat racing than track and field at the 7,377-foot high Echo Summit training base. Walker had a great jump of 54-6 1/2.

Burke, who finished seventh in the hammer at Tokyo, won Friday with a throw of 226-3, with Hall second at 220-5 and Connolly third at 213-8.

George Frenn of Long Beach was fourth at 210-1. Connolly and Hall thus will be making their fourth Olympic appearances next month at Mexico City.

Connolly, grandpappy of the Yank team this year at 37, won a gold medal at the 1956 Games in Melbourne, and hasn't come close since. He was sixth in 1964 while Hall was 12th.

Davenport, who bowed out in the 110-meter semifinals at Tokyo, vows this will be his year.

He won the final here (13.4) ahead of Leon Coleman (13.5) and Ervin Hall (also 13.5) while bucking headwinds of six miles per hour. He and the other hurdlers were lucky compared to Day and the others in the 5,000, who ran while the wind was blowing at an estimated 30 mph.

Day, who thought his career was over on Friday the 13th of May, 1966 when he tore tendon attachments to the Achilles, finished in a near deadheat with Jim Bachelor in the 5,000. Each man was credited with a time of 14:37.4, considered excellent in view of the altitude and the excessive wind.

As impressive as Day and Bachelor's performances were, the 5,000 was to be a new beginning, or the end for Lindgren and Schul. Unfortunately it was the latter.

Lindgren, who finished fifth in the 10,000 earlier in the week, was seeking to gain an Olympic berth in a race he might have won had he not gone in the longer event.

Still, being the competitor that he is, and despite a sore Achilles and a troublesome stomach ulcer, Gerry gave it all he had and missed by a stride or two.

Thus the third spot went to Lou Scott. Scott started the gun lap about 25 yards ahead of Lindgren, but Gerry went into a sprint about 200 meters from the wire that almost wiped Scott out.

"I feel real bad," said Lindgren, while fighting off the tears. "In looking back I can see now that I shouldn't have gone in the 10,000. I would have been better off going in just one race. I just couldn't get it (third place). I just couldn't do it."

Schul's talent never was a factor in the 5,000. He started last and finished last and the fact that he finished at all proved what a great champion he was.

Suffering from asthma, he couldn't breathe properly in the thin air. His face was contorted, his eyes closed and his mouth agape. When he staggered across the finish line two trainers were waiting for

Billie Jean May Require Knee Surgery

By BOB MARTIN
Staff Writer

The $30,000 Pacific Southwest Open Tennis Championships get under way today at the Los Angeles Tennis Club — and Billie Jean Moffitt King isn't sure she's going to be able to participate.

She disclosed her doubts at a news conference in Long Beach Friday preceding Billie Jean Moffitt King Day festivities.

"I may need an operation on my left knee," the women's world champion and top seed in the Pacific Southwest said. "I have been to a doctor in Long Beach and am scheduled to see him again. Also, George MacCall (president of the National Tennis League) has arranged for me to see a doctor in Beverly Hills."

She said the knee had bothered her since last November.

During the U.S. Open last week at Forest Hills, N.Y., it was reported that Billie Jean was bothered by tendinitis in the knee.

Her husband, Larry, said

Friday, however, that "It isn't exactly tendinitis. There's a loose cartilage floating in the knee."

He said that if she needs the operation she wants to get it as soon as possible. "It would put her out of action for at least two months," he added.

Mrs. King did participate in exhibition matches Friday afternoon at the Billie Jean Moffitt King Tennis Center. She played Rosemary Casals three games of singles, winning two of them, and she and Roy Emerson beat Miss Casals and Ken Rosewell, 7-5, in a set of mixed doubles.

Her first match in the Pacific Southwest is scheduled for noon Sunday against Pam Teeguarden. Billie Jean may learn today if she can play. Whether she would be given a postponement is not known.

She made no mention of her injury at Friday's luncheon in her honor, or at the exhibition-clinic.

Leukemia Won't Bench Me—Leahy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Former Notre Dame football coach Frank Leahy said Friday a numbness he has felt in his legs for many months has been diagnosed as chronic leukemia.

Leahy said physicians at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., diagnosed the cause of the numb feeling after he had consulted several other doctors in other cities, who were unable to pinpoint the cause.

"I checked into Mayo's about three weeks ago," he said. "The thing, chronic leukemia, is nowhere as severe as acute leukemia, and it can be lived with very well, if I follow a certain regimen."

Leahy lives in Lake Oswego, Ore., but spends much of his time in Chicago, where he is consultant and instructor in city youth athletic programs. He plans to resume his weekly football television commentary in Chicago next week.

"This leukemia hasn't benched me yet," he said. "Doctors have told me that I will feel fatigued around the middle of the day — and that's true — and that I should take a nap, and I do."

Mrs. Leahy said that if her husband "does as he is told by his doctor and takes his medicine there's no reason he won't have 15 to 20 years," Leahy is 60.

A major effect of the leukemia will be a tired feeling, but Mrs. Leahy said her husband had no plans to retire as a result of the disease.

Pros Win Palmer's Support

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, one of golf's all-time greats, joined the touring pros Friday in their dispute with the PGA.

Palmer, who attempted to settle the controversy over control of the tour, told a news conference that he made his decision to go along with the players after considerable thought.

"This is not an easy decision to make," Palmer said. "Since my initial entry into golf, I have been closely associated with the PGA. My father has been a PGA member for many, many years."

"And, while I have played amateur golf, basically, my association with golf from its origin has been with the PGA."

Palmer said he believed it necessary because of the PGA's action Thursday in refusing to grant the players more control of the tour.

Palmer had recommended establishment of a 14-man committee to control the tour. The PGA agreed to 12 members, including three without voting power.

"This is a hard decision on my part, but I think the entire matter has just about gone over the dam," he said. "I've decided I'm going to throw my lot in with the players and abide by their decision."

Palmer didn't let the controversy upset him on the course. He added a two-under-par 70 despite 35 putts to remain on the heels of the leaders in the Kemper Open with 139.

Gardner Dickinson, president of the newly formed American Professional Golfers, didn't fare as well.

Dickinson had a second round 74 for 147, and withdrew from the tournament. He reportedly was too upset by the controversy with the PGA to continue play.

A spokesman said that Dickinson had not been able to talk with all seven PGA board members on the PGA's action Thursday. Dickinson said he would have no official comment until he reached all the members.

Dickinson said before leaving for his home in Florida, "We have an organization now and we're going ahead."

He welcomed Palmer's backing and admitted weariness. "I needed help."

Millions to Watch McLain's Historic Shot at 30th Win

DETROIT (UPI) — In a year of sparkling pitching gems by a star-studded corps of hurlers, Denny McLain is standing out like a diamond in a seam of coal.

The durable Detroit Tigers' right-hander will take the mound today with some 50,000 fans and millions more watching on national television and attempt to accomplish something which has eluded pitchers for 34 years—win his 30th ball game.

On hand to witness the achievement by the dazzling dandy will be one sure bet for the Hall of Fame who came close with 27 wins—Sandy Koufax, as part of NBC's game of the week staff—and the last hard thrower to make it—Dizzy Dean.

"I made this statement years ago," said Dean. "When somebody wins 30, I was going to be there. When Denny wins 30 I'd like to be the first down there to congratulate him."

McLain, whose arm lately has been showing the strain brought on by 304 innings of work, will probably get a decision one way or the other as he fights to set down 27 Oakland Athletics and assure himself a lasting place in baseball records.

Of the stocky pitcher's 37 starts, resulting in a 17-1 road record and a 12-4 home mark for his current 29-5, only three have not resulted in a decision for McLain and the last of those occurred on June 2.

McLain credits concentration and control to his emergence as the premier pitcher of modern day baseball, at least this season, and has reduced his earned run average to a startling 1.95.

McLain, by his own admission a seeker after a $100,000 contract should his quest for 30 be successful, is also by his own admission a "coaster" who likes to challenge hitters when he has a lead.

As a result he lost 42 challenges to home run hitters in 1966, when he logged a 20-14 mark at the age of 22, and 35 more challenges last year when he posted a 17-16 record.

This season McLain has reduced his home run mark to 28 while striking out 255 and walking but 56.

One of the big reasons why McLain has suddenly turned invincible is support. The Tigers have averaged five runs a game for their brash pitching leader, although many have come in routs.

Finesse, Bit of Luck Key to Osteen's 10-Hit Shutout

By GEORGE LEDERER
Staff Writer

It takes a lot of skill and a little bit of luck to pitch a shutout. To pitch a 10-hit shutout, as Claude Osteen did Friday night, takes the cake.

Osteen, a 2-0 winner of the Braves, called it finesse. "When you get old like I am (he is all of 29), you gotta finesse 'em a little bit, like Satchel Paige. I know

I've never pitched a 10-hit shutout before. That takes some doing, not to mention a great defense.

DODGERS OF DAY
CLAUDE OSTEEN pitched shutout and WILLIE CRAWFORD had three hits as Dodgers downed Braves, 2-0.

"The defense was there, all right. I never saw such plays as (Bill) Sudakis made at third base. He's really something."

Sudakis, deprived of a hit, continued to provide the defensive spark, taking two hits and probably a run from the Braves. He made a diving stop of Felix Millan's drive and turned it into a force in the third inning, then threw out Millan by a whisker on a surprise bunt in the eighth.

"I didn't think Sudakis had a prayer on that bunt," said Osteen. "It's a pleasure to look over there and see someone diving for balls."

With Sudakis at third base and Paul Popovich at shortstop, the Dodgers have won eight of their last 10 and have moved within three games of seventh place.

Osteen, although allowing more hits than he has in a complete game all season, managed to go the distance for the first time since July 23. It was his 10th victory to go with a club record of 18 losses.

Everyone Wants to Pitch Against Punchless Angels

By FRED CLAIRE
Staff Writer

CHICAGO — One reason the Angels are finding wins hard to come by is they can't seem to get rid of opposing starting pitchers.

Chicago's Jack Fisher became the sixth successive pitcher to go the route against the Halos Friday night as he pitched the White Sox to a 2-1 victory.

The 29-year-old Fisher (8-10) had been able to complete only one of his previous 24 starts this season but he had enough stuff to last against the Angels while yielding five hits.

It was the fourth consecutive loss for the Angels, who find themselves only one game ahead of the ninth place Chisox.

The Angels haven't won a game since Sunday, and even then Boston's Juan Pizarro went the distance in defeat.

The complete game business is just the opposite from the Angels' standpoint. They have received only one complete job in their last 17 games, and that was turned in by Andy Messersmith in his first major league start.

The White Sox, who can pull even with the Angels by winning tonight, scored their two runs in the first inning off Jim McGlothlin (10-14) on Bill Melton's double.

Melton, recently recalled by the Chisox after splitting most of the season be-

FANFARE

The Dodgers were held to eight hits by knuckleballer Phil Niekro (11-12), three by Willie Crawford and two by Popovich. Crawford scored the first run and drove in the second.

Osteen was aware of Friday the 13th. He was reminded by his wife, George, as he left the house and again in the first inning when Millan's grounder bounced over Popovich's head for a single.

"I thought, 'Oh, no, not again.' Then things started to go the other way."

Osteen got a break in the fourth inning after Tommy Aaron doubled with one out. Bob Johnson followed with a drive through the box, hitting Aaron on the foot for an out.

"That ball was going through," said Osteen, "and I'm sure Aaron would have scored."

The Braves also had two hits after two were out in the ninth and went down 1-2-3 only in the seventh when Popovich handled three grounders. Osteen struck out pinch-hitter Marty Martinez for the final out after singles by Bob Tillman and Deron Johnson.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Although the hammers are still pounding and the paint is still wet, Mexican president Gustavo Diaz Ordaz Friday forged ahead with the opening of Olympic playing fields. He postponed the dedication of the Olympic Village until Thursday.

Many of the Olympic sites have been declared officially completed, but Lester Lane, an Oklahoman who coaches the Mexican basketball team doesn't believe it.

"They (Federal Public Works Department) tell us the Sports Palace won't be ready for another two weeks. The hardwood floor has to be ripped up and redone. They keep telling us things will be completed soon, but then the jobs aren't done," said Lane.

U.S. OPEN TENNIS champion Arthur Ashe defeated Clark Graebner 9-7, 6-3, Friday to win the Desert Inn Invitational singles title.

VETERAN RIGHT winger Wayne Larkin collapsed and died of a heart attack Friday during the first pre-season workout with the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League.

Also succumbing to injuries received last Sunday in a swimming accident off Waikiki Beach was Ted Makalena, 34, who won the 1966 Hawaiian Open golf tournament. Makalena suffered a broken neck and brain damage when he dove into shallow water.

MARK DONOHUE turned in a course record of 116.357 mph in leading qualifying for Sunday's Bridgehampton Grand Prix in New York.

The Media, Pa., driver bettered the mark of 114.777 mph set a year ago.

Streaking Yankees Roll Past Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rookie Stan Bahnsen gained his 16th victory in the nightcap after Mel Stottlemyre became a 20-game winner for the second time in his career in the opener Friday night as the surging New York Yankees swept a doubleheader from Washington Senators, 4-2, and 2-1, and stretched their winning streak to eight games.

Bahnsen, an almost sure bet for American League Rookie of the Year honors, held the Senators to seven hits in the nightcap as he raised his record to 16-10. The 23-year-old right-hander struck out eight and walked two while going the distance for the ninth time.

The Yankees pushed across the winning run in the sixth inning on a walk to Roy White, a stolen base and a two-out single by Bill Robinson.

The Senators scored a run in the second inning on Tim Cullen's bases-loaded infield out, but the Yankees tied it in the third on a walk to Bahnsen, a single by Horace Clarke, an infield out and a single by White.

Stottlemyre got game-winning help from Mickey Mantle in the opener as the Yankee veteran drove in two runs. In the first inning, his sacrifice fly scored Clarke who had singled and gone to third on a hit by Tom Tresh.

In the fifth inning, Mantle bounced a double to right to score Mike Ferraro, who had reached first on an error and taken third on Tresh's third single of the game. The Yankees scored two more runs in the sixth inning on singles by Joe Pettone, Bill Robinson and Frank Fernandez with Frank Howard's error making one of them unearned.

Wilson Bedevils Athletics

DETROIT (UPI) — Earl Wilson hurled the seventh consecutive complete game by a Detroit pitcher and slammed his 33rd career homer in the eighth inning Friday night as the league-leading Tigers blanked Oakland, 3-0.

Wilson's homer, a solo blast off Diego Segui, was his seventh homer of the season — tying his best single season mark of two years ago. He's four short of Wes Ferrell's career record of 37 homers by a pitcher.

It was the fourth win in a row for the Tigers, who reduced their magic number to five for their first pennant since 1945. Denny McLain will attempt to extend the streak today when he goes for his 30th victory in a nationally televised contest.

OAKLAND — The Athletics' offense was stifled in the eighth inning, as they were unable to score runs against Detroit's relief pitchers.

The Athletics' pitcher, Dick Groat, pitched a complete game, allowing only three runs.

Mets Set Win Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Jerry Koosman won his 18th game with a three-hitter and the New York Mets set a club record for wins, beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-0, Friday night.

It was the 67th victory of the season for the Mets — one more than their best previous one-year total since they entered the National League in 1962.

PITTSBURGH — The Pirates' offense was stifled in the eighth inning, as they were unable to score runs against New York's relief pitchers.

The Pirates' pitcher, Steve Carlton, pitched a complete game, allowing only two runs.

Harrelson Slams 35th

BOSTON (UPI) — Ken Harrelson slammed his 35th homer and singled home another run Friday night to back the six-hit pitching of Ray Culp in leading the Boston Red Sox to a 3-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Culp struck out nine and walked none in posting his 13th triumph against five losses.

MINNESOTA — The Twins' offense was stifled in the eighth inning, as they were unable to score runs against Boston's relief pitchers.

The Twins' pitcher, Steve Carlton, pitched a complete game, allowing only two runs.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Max Alvis doubled home three runs to highlight a six-run third inning while Sony Siebert and Mike Paul combined for a three-hitter to pace the Cleveland Indians to a 10-2 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles Friday night.

Siebert, making his first start since Aug. 18, held the Orioles hitless over the first three innings and Paul pitched scoreless ball over the final six frames to win his third victory against eight losses.

BALTIMORE — The Orioles' offense was stifled in the eighth inning, as they were unable to score runs against Cleveland's relief pitchers.

The Orioles' pitcher, Dick Groat, pitched a complete game, allowing only three runs.

Cardinals Up to Old Tricks; Set Ram Trap

By AL LARSON
Staff Writer

"I think we're about ready," Merlin Olsen said Friday on the eve of the Rams' departure for St. Louis today.

Olsen and his teammates will find out in a hurry if he's right when the Rams open their 1968 NFL season Monday night against the Cardinals, a team with one of the strongest offensive lines in football.

No less than five Cardinals offensive linemen were invited to play in last January's Pro Bowl. Included in this group are center Bob DeMarco, guards Ken Gray and Irv Goode, tackle Ernie McMillan and light end Jackie Smith.

And the St. Louis forwards are up to their old tricks. In five pre-season games the Cardinals quarterbacks were tackled only four times while attempting to pass. By way of comparison, Roman Gabriel and Milt Plum were knocked down 13 times in six games.

The Rams counter with three defensive Pro Bowlers — Olsen, Deacon Jones and Roger Brown — plus steady veteran Lamar Lundy. This group got to the opposing QB 12 times in exhibition play.

When Brown trudged off Blair Field Friday, he weighed 283, the lightest in nine pro seasons. Roger came to training camp weighing 315.

Flanker Bobby Joe Conrad and Gray are the only Cardinals still around from the Chicago era. The Cardinals franchise was shifted to St. Louis in 1960.

The Rams remain five-point favorites against Card team which dropped out of Century contention last year by winning only one of its last six games.

Bob Atkins and Jamie Rivers, both on defense, are the only rookies to crash the Cards' starting lineups. Dave Williams and Mike Barnes are second-year men.

Middle linebacker Mike Strofollino played with the Rams briefly as a rookie in 1965.

St. Louis is expected to be without veteran safety Jerry Stovall for another week because of a severe contusion of the right thigh sustained in the New York Giants' game.

PRO-RAMA: Earl Star completed 44.6 per cent of his passes (70 of 157) for 1,099 yards and 10 TDs during pre-season play. He had intercepted three passes with a 56.6 percentage (61 of 105 for 822 yards, 2 TDs and 1 interception).

Merlin Olsen caught only 2 passes for 15 yards in exhibition play for the Rams. Olsen, who was released by the Cardinals last week, was re-signed by the Rams.

The 1968 NFL attendance of 2,200,437 for 35 pre-season games bettered 1967's previous high of 2,001,547 for 31 games. The Rams played before 31,095 for an average of 52,182. Last year's Rams crowds totaled 295,006 for six exhibitions.

The 20 AFL-NFL games attracted 1,001,467 fans played before the most fans — 372,102 in six games.

No Way to Beat Night Sulky Races May Start in 1968 Old Pro

SUTTON, Mass. (UP) — Art Wall and Paul Harney, a couple of old pros laughing at young muscles, stormed into a two-stroke lead while withstanding the challenge of youthful Marty Fleckman Friday in the second round of the $150,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

Wall, who will be 45 in November, and Harney, the 39-year-old host pro who limits his four appearances, put together second subpar efforts to share the lead with 36-hole totals of 137 at the halfway mark at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Fleckman, however, stunned the field, and a crowd of 19,650, by setting a course record of 34-32—66, six under par on the spacious 7,230-yard layout. The tremendous round moved the 1965 NCAA champion from Houston into a tie for third with Arnold Palmer, Doug Sanders, Howie Johnson and Orville Moody.

Wall, whose best effort this year was a tie for eighth place in the American Golf Classic, picked up four birdies en route to a steady 68.

Harney earlier showed his knowledge of the home course by firing a sizzling 67, going out in two under par 35, and then carding three birdies for a 32 on the back nine.

Ellis 2½-1 Pick Over Patterson

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Jimmy Ellis, with an advantage in age, weight, reach and height, was made a 2½-1 favorite Friday to retain his World Boxing Assn. heavyweight crown in his first defense against Floyd Patterson today.

Ellis, 28, of Louisville, Ky., registered 198 pounds to 188½ for the 33-year-old New Yorker at the weigh-in ceremony Friday.

A crowd of 30,000 is expected to pay from $5 to $80 to watch the two Americans clash in Sweden's first heavyweight title fight ever in the Raasunda Soccer Stadium.

The scheduled 15-round fight will be telecast (Channel 7, 11:15 a.m.) live to the United States, Mexico, Canada and several countries in Europe.

Ellis, a one-time sparring partner for Cassius Clay, has won 11 straight, the last nine as a heavyweight.

He beat Jerry Quarry, conqueror of Patterson in an earlier bout, on April 27. Patterson, in his last bout, lost a disputed decision to Quarry in 12 rounds on Oct. 28. Patterson's record is 46-6-1, including 35 knockouts. He has been stopped four times.

Ellis told newsmen he was confident but aware that "Patterson is a very brave and dangerous fighter."

King III, May Miss 20 Games

It will be early December before Jim King of the San Francisco Warriors will be able to play an NBA game, the former Long Beach resident said Friday.

King, an All-Star guard last year, is suffering from muscle inflammation in the pelvic area, and other lower abdominal problems, according to Dr. Robert Kerlan.

King, who has been bedridden most of the summer, will be put on a 12-week rehabilitation program beginning today. He will miss at least 20 games.

Three Share Englehorn Lead

CALDWELL, Idaho (UP) — Sandra Haynie, Clifford Ann Creed and Sharon Miller fired two-under-par 69s Friday to take the first round lead in the Shirley Englehorn Invitational golf tournament.

One stroke back of the leaders were Carol Mann, who has collected over $45,000 in winnings this year, Gloria Ehret and Shirley Englehorn, for whom the tournament is named.

Miss Mann called a one-stroke penalty on herself at the 11th hole for failing to sink a tap-in putt.

Welch Activated

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Lions Friday activated defensive back Jim Welch and dropped defensive halfback Bobby Williams to their taxi squad to remain at the National Football League's 40-player limit.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Defense end Leo Carroll, recently acquired in a trade with the Atlanta Falcons, was placed on the roster of the Green Bay Packers Friday.

TROUBLED PALMER

Arnold Palmer had much on his mind Friday. Prior to announcing he'd joined new golfers' association, Arnie drove tee shot on 10th hole of Kemper Open into right ear of club employee John Jamrogowicz. Palmer finished round with 139 total—two off leaders—while Jamrogowicz went to hospital with possible concussion.

FOOT THE BILL VICTOR Poona Khan Aims for Pomona Win

Combined News Services

Classy Poona Khan, a seasoned veteran of the sprinting wars, will be trying to prove lightning can strike twice in the same place today when he faces five formidable rivals in the 17th running of the $10,000-added Governor's Handicap at six furlongs at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds. Post-time for the first Saturday card of the 14-day session will be noon.

As an extreme outsider in the 1967 Governor's Cup, Poona Khan led from wire-to-wire to tally in a track record equalling 1:10 2/5 for the distance. His rider of a year ago, Miguel Yanez, will be back in the boot today, but Poona Khan will pack five pounds more than he did last season as he picks up lightweight of 120 pounds.

Durable Sledge, victor in the 1963 Governor's Cup and runner-up to Poona Khan in '67, will be seeking a measure of revenge as he goes postward under Rudy Campas at 111 pounds, a drop of eight pounds from last year.

Others in the line-up are Dr. Roy E. Blazing Silk, Buck's Jet, and Adobe.

Motor Stable's Foot The Bill charged from last place to circle the field on the stretch turn and win the $11,000 foothill stakes at the 1968 Fairgrounds, racing season got off to a rousing start before 10,862 onlookers.

Damascus, the 1967 horse of the year, can take a few more steps toward capturing similar honors in 1968 by winning the $100,000-added Michigan Mile at the Detroit Race Course.

Included in the 12-horse field are Stanislas, who upset Tom Rolfe in the Michigan Mile two years ago, and Hedeveer, the pacemaker rabbit the two times Damascus defeated Dr. Fager.

Elsewhere, Mrs. Richard C. duPont's Politely was established a 5-2 favorite to win the $75,000-added Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct. The race for fillies and mares is over 1½ miles. Only four others are slated to go postward. They are Gamely, Amerigo Lady, Straight Deal and Serene Queen. All will carry 123 pounds.

Ogden Phipps' Queen Of The Stage, making her first start since Oct. 28, made all the pace Friday and won the $15,000 Silver Blaze Purse at Aqueduct Race Track.

Helioroad led all the way and just held on to score by a nose over Rey Sibby in the Gessler Purse at Atlantic City.
